ONLY INDIANS TO KILL BEAVER

Ottawa, June 14.—Beware of "boot-leggers" of beaver pelts, was the warning of J. A. Fraser, Conservative, Carleton place, after the House of Commons had been informed of the Government's intention to allow only Indians to kill beaver in the Northwest Territories during the coming year.

British Columbia had experienced trouble with the "bootlegging" of pelts during a closed season in the past, Mr. Fraser said.

CITY TO CHOOSE SUCCESSOR TO DR. A. G. PRICE

Three applications have been received so far by the city for a successor to Dr. Arthur G. Price, Medical Health Officer, who is to retire at his own request on July 1. Applications will close at the City Hall at 12 noon to-morrow, it was stated to-day.

To-day Is Anniversary Of First Atlantic Flight

To-day is one of aviation's high lights. Ten years ago Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Whitten Brown began the first non-stop aeroplane flight across the Atlantic, blazing a trail many other daring aviators were to follow, some to glory and some to death.

Brown is alive to-day, but Alcock was killed in a crash at Cote d'Auvergne, France, only six months after his epoch-making flight. Both men were knighted by King George for their achievement and they won the $50,000 prize offered by a London newspaper to the first fliers to accomplish the difficult feat.

DEMONSTRATED POSSIBILITIES

Their flight, now universally recognized as a great event in the history of the development of aviation, demonstrated for the first time that a heavier-than-air machine was capable of the sustained flight, under trying conditions, which crossing of the Atlantic entailed.

It was the realization of a dream cherished in the minds of many fliers for many years. Indeed, the project of the flight was first broached in 1913 by the late Lord Northcliffe, but owing to the outbreak of the World War no attempt was made at that time.

BANDIT WRITES TO VANCOUVER DAILY PAPER

"Phantom" Informs Province He Plans One Big Hold-up Before He Leaves City

Vancouver, June 14.—Declaring women and children need not be alarmed as he will not molest them and that he is planning "one big haul" before he leaves Vancouver, the "phantom" bandit has written an interesting letter to The Daily Province. "The Phantom," according to the letter, dated June 12, is proud of his record. He never works at night, he states, but always meets his man in the open. He considers his activities splendid sport, but is planning a major hold-up before he leaves the city.

"These little trifling hold-ups are only paying expenses and putting me in a position to make a quick getaway when the final strike comes," he wrote.

Forest Fires Drive Indian Families To Islands In Lake

Winnipeg, June 14.—With forest fires raging around their encampments, Indians living north of Nelson House, Man., have been forced to seek shelter on small islands in Beaverdam Lake, according to word received here.

Several Indian families are now on the islands.

U.S. FARM BILL HAS NO SUBSIDY

Washington, June 14.—In line with the decision of the House and concurring in the views of President Hoover, the joint Senate and House farm conference committee to-day approved a farm measure lacking the controversial debenture proposal.

MEMBERS AT OTTAWA DISPERSE

Prorogation Comes After Busy Hours at Last of the Session

Speech Read By Governor-General Reviews Work Done in Months

Ottawa, June 14.—The 1929 session of the Parliament of Canada ended late this afternoon.

Prorogation came after a day in which the members covered a great deal of ground in approving the remaining estimates. The Speech from the Throne was read by Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General, as follows:

"Honorable members of the Senate: Members of the House of Commons: I desire to express my appreciation of the expedition with which you have conducted the proceedings of the session of Parliament now concluded and of the attention given by you to its exacting duties."

TAXATION REDUCTION

"It is gratifying to observe it has again been possible to effect a further reduction of taxation and also a substantial reduction in the public debt."

TRADE GROWS

"The improvement in Canada's financial position has been paralleled by a continuous improvement in the financial position of the Canadian railways and by a steady growth in manufacturing and in domestic and foreign trade. The acts making provision for another comprehensive programme of branch line construction by the two railway systems, for the acquisition by the Canadian National system of certain lines of railway in different provinces, for the construction of adequate terminal facilities at Montreal, for the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway and harbor facilities at Port Churchill and for further loans to the harbor commissions of our national ports are indications of our recognition of the demand for more adequate transportation and trade facilities."

NEW STEAMSHIP LINES

"The policy of promoting the expansion of trade by assisting the establishment of steamship services abroad has been amply justified. The Canadian National service inaugurated last year to ports in South America has required the addition of more ships than were at first contemplated and the West Coast service has attracted an increasing export trade. SOCIAL WELFARE INQUIRY BRINGS SOME SURPRISES

Provincial Commission Learns of Companies' and Employees' Aid Systems

Vancouver, June 14.—At its closing session here this forenoon, the Provincial Commission on Health and Social Welfare heard valuable evidence relating to the Canadian Pacific Railway Employees' Association, the largest organization of its kind in British Columbia.

The association has 7,000 members enrolled for medical benefits, of which 3,100 are married men. There are also 7,750 dependents, eighteen and under, enrolled in the scheme. The fee is $1.75 monthly.

A. M. Innis, who gave evidence concerning the financial operation of the association, stated hospitalization cost $6.75 a year a member, and drug bills $2.48, and the cost for maternity benefits was at the rate of 36 cents a member a year. The association paid half of the recognized medical fee for maternity attendance.

INFORMATION IS VALUED

Members of the commission were impressed with the relatively low cost per member for the benefits received and stated the evidence would prove valuable when the commission should come to the second part of its work, that of determining the advisability of some form of state health insurance.

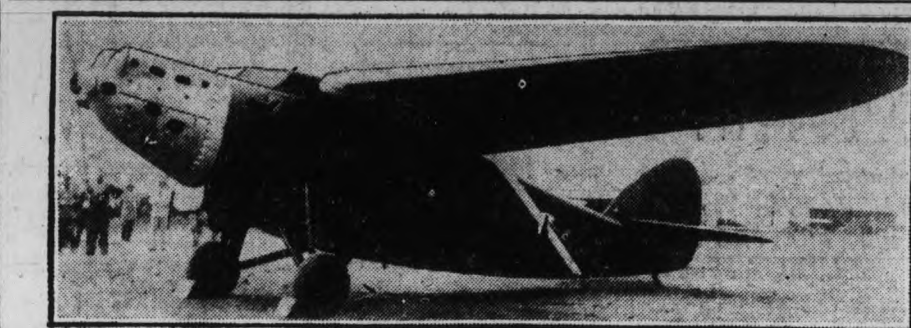

Dr. A. P. Procter, chief medical officer of the association, and D. McDonald, president of the Canadian National Railway Employees' Association, also gave evidence.

Throughout the sessions here representatives of labor organizations were in attendance, watching the proceedings.

HEALTH INSURANCE

The commissioners will continue their work of gathering information as to the character and amount of social welfare work conducted in the Province before hearing evidence on proposals regarding state health insurance. They stated on adjournment to-day they have been surprised since starting their work to learn so many companies and so many employees' organizations were engaged in social welfare activities.

FLAYS BURDEN'S POWER POLICY

Sample of Strong Arm Methods of Government, Says Pattullo

Survey Dependent Upon Legislature Vote Not Water Rentals

The announcement of policy on British Columbia's water powers made yesterday by Hon. F. P. Burden, Minister of Lands, in which he made the statement that water powers of the Province would be made the subject of a systematic survey during the next few years, was criticized to-day by T. D. Pattullo, Leader of the Opposition in the Legislature, in a statement which charges the Government with strong arm methods and attacks plans calling for expenditure of money not voted by the Government.

Mr. Pattullo points out that the Minister of Lands in a statement claims the public is well protected against private exploitation of water power in that there is nothing to prevent the Government from making the water rentals so onerous that any private corporation would be glad to relinquish its rights.

BAD BUSINESS

"This," says Mr. Pattullo, "is a sample of the 'strong arm methods' which the present Government is using in connection with its administration. I submit that it is not only bad business, but that it is entirely immoral. Referring to the minister's statement in the statement of the minister, dependent upon the revenues received from water rentals, but upon appropriation voted by the Legislature. The department has no authority to spend the revenues received from water rentals only to spend monies voted by the Legislature."

INFORMAL TALK WILL MEAN MUCH FOR THE FUTURE

Premier MacDonald Will Meet U.S. Ambassador Dawes in Scotland Sunday

Lossmouth, Scotland, June 14.—"My talk with General Dawes will be one of the most informal, things that ever happened," said Premier MacDonald when he informed an interviewer he would meet the new United States Ambassador to Britain at the small town of Forres, seventeen miles from here, on Sunday, to talk over British and United States problems.

Ambassador Dawes arrived in London late to-day and to-morrow will present his credentials to the King at Windsor Castle. He must travel directly afterwards to Scotland as there are no Sunday trains to Lossmouth, where Premier MacDonald is resting for a short time at his old home, "The Hillocks."

The distinguished pair will lunch together at some place not yet specified and will be together for three or four hours to talk over, among other things, the probable trip of MacDonald to Washington. Ambassador Dawes is resting for a short time at his old home, "The Hillocks."

NO DELAY DESIRED

"There are times when informality is more effective," Premier MacDonald said in discussing the meeting. "In the ordinary course of events it would be unnecessary for the Ambassador to

NEW AMBASSADOR NOW IN BRITAIN

BRIG-GEN. CHARLES G. DAWES

Southampton, Eng., June 14.—Charles G. Dawes, new United States Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived at Southampton from the United States this afternoon and was cordially welcomed by officials of the city.

London, June 14.—Brig-Gen. Chas. G. Dawes, new United States Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived here this evening to take up his post.

RETURNING FROM THEATRE

The two nurses, Myrtle Bennett, whose parents live on Salsbury Drive, Bousley, and Martha Erickson, who came from Stockholm, Sask., recently, had attended a theatre in Vancouver and were being driven home when the accident occurred.

Police from Burnaby and Vancouver answered a telephone call from a man, whose name was not obtained, at 12:30 a.m. and just east of Boundary Road, on Grandview Highway, they found a closed car overturned in the ditch. The machine was wrecked.

Jammed in the wreckage of the front seat were the bodies of Campbell and Rita Erickson. Both had been instantly killed in the crash. The remains were terribly mangled.

NO STATEMENT MADE

Myrtle Bennett, semi-conscious and terribly injured, was discovered in a crumpled heap in the rear of the car. She was rushed to a hospital, where it was found she had sustained fractures of the skull and one arm and severe internal injuries. In spite of the efforts of physicians, she died at 7:30 a.m. without making any statement.

Papers found on the body of Campbell led to his identification, and later the police learned the identities of the women.

NEW GRAIN ELEVATORS

Regina, June 14.—With thirty-nine new elevators to be built this year, three of which are already constructed, and twenty-seven others being torn down and rebuilt, the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool has launched on a programme which will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

WEATHER DELAYS LONE VOYAGER

Seward, Alaska, June 14.—Ralph Voigt, who left Seward last Sunday in a sixteen-foot walrus skin canoe, bound for New York City via the Panama Canal, returned here early to-day. He had lain in the Harding Entrance, awaiting the calming of the sea.

Voigt now intends to take a steamer to Ketchikan and begin his proposed water journey from that point.

H. MANSON IS AWARDED LEADER CUP

Orator and President of Council Receives Trophy at High School Ceremony

Athletic and Academic Prizes Distributed at School This Afternoon

Herbert Manson, British Columbia school oratorical champion and president of the Victoria High School Students' Council, was awarded the Leader Cup, the trophy emblematic of athletic and academic high standing and popularity in the school, at the institution's prize giving ceremonies this afternoon.

Manson has been for some time one of the leading boys in the school, having taken part in many of its activities and acquiring himself very creditably in scholastic field. By winning the Leader Cup he attained one of the highest triumphs offered to a boy in the school and justly merited the high commendation which was bestowed upon him at the ceremony this afternoon.

ATHLETIC AWARDS

Senior athletic championship trophies were awarded to Raymond Kersey in the boys' division and Maxine Ewart in the girls' section. Margaret Bremner and Bruce Humber took similar laurels in the intermediate section, while Peggy Sharp and George Dickson received the junior championship prizes.

The Women's Canadian Club prize for Canadian History was presented to Florence Griffin by Mrs. C. Spofford, president of the Women's Canadian Club.

TENNIS PRIZES

Tommy Forbes and Maxine Ewart shared honors in the tennis championship presentation. Forbes received the boys' senior singles trophy, while Miss Ewart was given the girls' prize. Kenneth Ross and Cecil Barner of Division 8 were given the Beta Delta Tennant, donated by the school's debating society.

Conservative Is Sent To British Commons By Voters Of Rugby

Rugby, Eng., June 14.—The only return still outstanding from the British general election was announced to-day. Captain D. Margesson, Conservative, retained the Rugby seat with 15,145 votes. G. J. Morgan, Laborite, polled 11,588 votes. Lord Robert Berrys, Liberal, 10,138.

The polling in Rugby was deferred until yesterday because of the death of the Labor candidate shortly before the date set for the general election.

The standing of the parties in the new House of Commons is now: Labor, 289; Conservatives, 260; Liberals, 38; Nationalists, 5; Independents, 4; Prohibitionist, 1. Total, 615.

IDAHO BANDITS ARE CAPTURED

Moscow, Idaho, June 14.—The "bad" desperadoes who abducted and robbed Lieut. Governor W. B. Kinsley and two other men were reported captured to-day by posse men and sheriffs at Julietta, Idaho.

REPORTED ALL WELL

New York, June 14.—The French Line steamship Niagara reported by wireless that it was in communication with the transatlantic monoplane Yellow Bird at 6 a.m. Eastern Standard Time (3 a.m. Victoria Time), and that everything was reported well on board the plane.

(Concluded on Page 17)

Santer, Spain, June 14.—The transatlantic aeroplane Yellow Bird landed on a beach near Comillas to-night with its fuel practically exhausted.

The station at Le Bouscat, near Bordeaux, France, which had earlier been in communication with the fliers, called the plane on the old length of 600 metres, but had received no reply up till 11 p.m.

SHIPS ASKED FOR NEWS

The fact that its calls went unanswered gave some strength to the reports of the landing, for it had been in constant communication and would no longer be able to transmit information on the ground. Le Bouscat heard a Lisbon station calling all vessels and asking for news of the plane, but there was no reply intercepted here.

WEST OF SANTANDER

The name of the beach was given as Ombre, a name of a cape just west of Comillas.

Comillas is about thirty miles west of this city.

Bordeaux, June 14.—The French transatlantic monoplane Yellow Bird was flying northward along the coast of Portugal at 9:07 p.m. (12:07 p.m. Victoria time).

The Yellow Bird was in constant communication with the French wireless station of Le Bouscat, near Bordeaux.

The aviators reported they were within sight of Portugal and were keeping land within sight constantly. The Yellow Bird periodically reported to Le Bouscat station that all was going well aboard the plane. The last message came at twilight, was falling, but night had not fallen completely at 9:30 p.m. (12:30 p.m. Victoria time).

Le Bourget, France, June 14.—A message begging his son to do "all possible to land on French soil," was sent by report to the transatlantic monoplane Yellow Bird by M. Lotti, father of the plane's radio operator, and sponsor of the flight, Armeno Lotti Jr., as soon as the steamship Niagara reported the fliers were safe somewhere off the Azores about noon to-day.

The Yellow Bird left Old Orchard, Maine, at 10:08 a.m., Thursday, Eastern Standard Time.

SOUTHERN FRANCE

Paris, June 14.—A private radio operator in Paris late to-day stated he had caught a report that the transatlantic monoplane Yellow Bird was in sight of Oporto, Portugal.

The radio operator said the fliers gave notice of intention to try for a landing in southern France if their gasoline held out.

SS. LACONIA REPORTS

London, June 14.—Offices of the Cunard Line here to-day received a wireless from the steamship Laconia, bound for Liverpool, which had been in communication with the French transatlantic monoplane Yellow Bird and which reported all well aboard. The message was timed "noon G.M.T." (4 a.m. Victoria time).

The position of the Yellow Bird was not given in the message.

The Laconia's position was northeast of the Azores, about 700 miles from the islands.

REPORTED ALL WELL

New Prince Of Wales Engagement Rumor Is Ended

London, June 14.—London's tea-time gossipers had a shock to-day when it was learned the Prince of Wales would not be present at the ball at the Swedish Legation to-night in honor of Princess Ingrid of Sweden. Rumors of a possible engagement announcement of the two seemed to have been given a definite quietus with the issuance of the guest list. It was said at the Swedish Legation the Prince of Wales had not even been invited.

U.S. EXPECTS INCREASED MIGRATION FROM BRITAIN

Washington, June 14 (By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Nearly twice as many Britons yearly may enter the United States under the immigration quota after July 1. The Senate yesterday refused to prevent the national origins clause of the Immigration Act of 1924 from going into effect on that date. It follows from the action of the Senate that the quotas of the various nations which send immigrants to the United States will be revised. The greatest changes will be in the quotas affecting Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Germany and the Scandinavian countries. British immigrants to the number of 65,721 will be permitted to enter the country as against the old number of 54,007.

"GUARDIANS OF THE WILD" FEATURE ON COLUMBIA SCREEN

The cast of "Guardians of the Wild," the current attraction at the Columbia Theatre, may be divided into two distinct parts. The animal cast consists of Rex, the King of Wild Horses, and Starlight the white horse belonging to Jack Perrin. The human players are Jack Perrin, Ethylene Clair, Bob Homans, Al Ferguson and Bernard Siegel.

DOUBLE-CROSSING LEADS TO CLIMAX IN COLISEUM PLAY

The betrayal of one crook by another leads to the climax of the exciting play, "Toby, the Squash Head" now on the stage at the Coliseum Theatre. A finely conceived blackmail plan is hatched by George Tucker, played by Paul Wallace, and the husband of the innocent young woman whom Tucker's half-brother intends to marry. However, the husband, thinking himself double-crossed by his confederate, makes a "clean" breast of things and gives rise to one of the most exciting climaxes that have featured the plays presented by Raymond Leitch's company.

DEATH SENTENCE
Elizabeth, N.J., June 14.—Henry Colin Campbell yesterday was found guilty of murder in the first degree for the torch slaying of Mrs. Mildred Mowry, his bigamous wife. The verdict contained no recommendation for mercy. By failing to recommend mercy, the jury made a sentence of death in the electric chair obligatory.

STEEPLECHASE IS THRILLING FEATURE OF "HOT HEELS"

The most thrilling and dangerous of horse races, the Steeplechase, was filmed in Universal's "Hot Heels," starring Glenn Tryon and which is now at the Playhouse Theatre. It is featured by many exciting tumblers of man and horse. The supporting cast includes Patry Ruth Miller, Gretel Yoltz, James Bradbury Sr., Tod Sloan and Lloyd Whitlock, William Craft directed.

STARS CELEBRATED "OLD HOME WEEK" DURING PRODUCTION

"I can remember what" seemed to be the by-word at the Paramount Long Island studios recently when there was a veritable "Old Home Week" of Broadway stars. It all took place while Richard Dix was working on his latest release, "Nothing But the Truth," now at the Dominion, an all-talking picture based on the stage play. In the cast with Dix are Louis John Bartels, the actor who made "The Show-Off" the success that it was, Ned A. Sparks, favorite of stage and screen and Berton Churchill, another "old-timer." At the same time Oscar Shaw and Mary Eaton, stars of "The Five O'Clock Girl," were at the studios working in the Marx Brothers picture, "The Cocoanuts."

Mr. King Tells Visitors From Britain of Unity in Canada

Ottawa, June 14.—Pilgrims of the British Free Churches, who are in Canada studying Canada's great experiment in Christian unity, Church union yesterday learned from the Prime Minister of Canada of other and even greater object lessons this country is giving to the world. Premier King, in an address of welcome to the pilgrims at the Dominion Experimental Farm here, traced briefly the history of the French and English-speaking citizens of Canada, and stated the great object lesson: "In Canada to-day was that people of two great religious divisions and races could live together and work together for the common good."

tense and solemn silence of the sound stage, into the microphone: "Yes, I know—whenever a relative of ours kills anybody he's a fine gentleman defending the honor of womanhood." And she put into it all the bitter, heartbreak of her role as a frivolous small town belle faced so sternly with the stark tragedy of unwittingly having brought doom to the lad she loved with heart and soul. With these lines the actual production of the all-talking version of "Coquette," was begun. The lighter moments with which the drama sparkles also had their day. "Coquette," as it will be seen at the Capitol Theatre, takes Miss Pickford into a new field. Besides playing an all-talking picture, directed by Sam Taylor, Miss Pickford presents a grown up role in a romantic tragic story. She appears as a young woman who defies family and convention to reveal in poignant romance.

LIFE OF SAVIOUR IS PORTRAYED IN "KING OF KINGS"

The subject of Cecil B. De Mille's "King of Kings" is the greatest drama of history—the life, arrest, trial, death and resurrection of the Saviour of the World. By agreement of reviewers everywhere, Mr. De Mille has achieved an extraordinary triumph, and there will be seen during this week-end a film on its premier representation here at the Playhouse Theatre next Monday. A tremendous cast of stellar players makes this production one of the most notable of the decade.

STRICT LAW ENFORCEMENT RECOMMENDED

Union of Canadian Municipalities Hears Advice From Its President

Three Rivers, Que., June 14.—With delegates from points throughout Canada in attendance, the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities was opened here yesterday. In his presidential address, Mayor A. Bates, M.P., for Three Rivers, urged all municipalities to see the law strictly enforced in their towns and cities, even to the smallest infraction of city by-laws.

In a paper prepared by Dr. F. T. Underhill, medical health officer of Vancouver, standardization of milk pasteurizing plants, establishment of central receiving stations, with collecting systems for gathering the milk from farms, was advocated. C. E. Jackson, Mayor of Windsor, Ont., urged a conference of Federal and Provincial authorities to draft a standardized code of traffic regulations for the whole of Canada.

TWO CONSTABLES ARE DISMISSED

London, June 14.—Another scandal in the British Police Force was disclosed yesterday in the announcement that Police Constable Watson, recently censured by a West London magistrate, had been requested by Baron Byng, chief commissioner to resign from the force. Watson had been charged with discreditable conduct in preferring an unfounded charge of assault against a bookmaker, who had in fact been assaulted by Watson, when the latter, in plain clothes and off duty, demanded from the bookmaker a sum of money in respect of a bet which had not been made. Police Constable Smith also was censured by the magistrate in another case and was dismissed in connection with a charge of using insulting language and behavior, making a false statement regarding an arrest, and making a sum of money in respect of a bet which had not been made. The financial statement, presented by W. H. Bosworth, showed $201.50 received from rentals; $48.77, proceeds of card parties; and special donations, $101.50. Expenditures were $48.77 covering insurance, water and light. A credit balance of $176.05 was reported. Thanks were accorded the committee.

Colwood

A satisfactory report of the Colwood Hall activities was presented at the annual meeting, held Tuesday evening in Colwood Hall, with J. Hopwood as chairman. The financial statement, presented by W. H. Bosworth, showed $201.50 received from rentals; $48.77, proceeds of card parties; and special donations, $101.50. Expenditures were $48.77 covering insurance, water and light. A credit balance of $176.05 was reported. Thanks were accorded the committee. Tenders for plumbing were tabled for further consideration. A donation of $10 was voted the Colwood Women's Institute, to assist in replacing broken dishes. The committee for the past year was unanimously re-elected as follows: J. Hopwood, chairman; R. W. Robinson, secretary; W. H. Bosworth, treasurer; Messrs. J. Hopwood, G. M. Piercy, R. Murray, R. Parker, A. Godfrey, Miss Kelly, Messrs. G. M. Piercy, B. Parker, A. Godfrey. The summer sale of work of the W.A. to St. John's Church, held in Colwood Hall on Wednesday afternoon, realized a substantial sum. The sale was opened by the acting vicar of the parish, the Rev. Mr. Mortimer, and many guests were present from Victoria, Langford, Luxton and View Royal. Miss James, president of the W.A., was general convener of the sale. The novelty stall was presided over by Mrs. C. R. Hodgins and Mrs. H. H. Massey. Mrs. H. Parker and Mrs. R. W. Robinson had charge of the work stall. The home cooking stall was managed by Miss Scott, Mrs. A. Godfrey and Miss Caroline Godfrey. The candy and ice cream stall was presided over by Mrs. H. S. Meadows and C. Carnegie, and Mrs. W. M. Brown had charge of the brambles. Tea was served by Mrs. J. W. Little and Mrs. T. W. Millburn. In the cake guessing contest Miss James guessed the exact weight of a fruit cake made by Mrs. A. Godfrey. Morning service will be held at St. John's Church Sunday, June 16, at 11 a.m. Celebration of holy communion will take place following the service. HERTZOG TO MAKE CHANGES IN CABINET

South Africa Waits to See If Labor Will Be Included

Capetown, S.A., June 14 (Canadian Cable via Reuters).—The Nationalist Party having merged victorious from the South African general election held on Wednesday, the predominant question now is whether Premier J. B. Hertzog will form a purely Nationalist Government or continue to co-operate with the five Creweell Labor members in forming another Nationalist-Labor Government. With the results of 136 of the 148 seats in the Assembly definitely known, the Nationalists have a majority of two over all other parties, and are regarded as almost certain to prove successful in the twelve constituencies to be heard from.

The Nationalists' majority over the South African Party, the official opposition led by ex-Premier J. C. Smuts, is ten seats. Combined with the Labor group, led by Col. H. F. Creweell, the Nationalists have a majority of twelve seats over the South African Party and the National Council Laborites, who are opposed to the Hertzog Government. But it becomes increasingly evident that Premier Hertzog will be able to carry on the administration of the union without the parliamentary aid of the Creweell Labor faction.

STANDING IN HOUSE

The standing of the parties is as follows: Nationalists 69, South African Party 59, Creweell Laborites 5, National Council Laborites 3, doubtful 12. Total 148.

In the last Assembly the Nationalists numbered 63 members, the Laborites 18 and the South African Party 54. A redistribution bill, passed by the last Parliament, increased the representation from 135 to 148 seats.

NATIONALISTS' GAME

In Wednesday's election the Hertzog Party took six seats from the South African Party and one from the Laborites, winning in addition eight of the new seats. According to the Nationalist organ, Die Burger, the Nationalists will have a majority of ten over all parties when the complete returns are in. The South African Party organ, The Cape Times, disputes this, however.

LABOR'S LOSSES

Most of the gains made by the South African Party were at the expense of the Labor Party, in which a split developed several weeks ago. The two Labor groups sustained a severe defeat. They lost seven seats to the South African Party, which also gained two seats from the Nationalists. The South African Party also captured five of the thirteen new seats.

GREATLY DISAPPOINTED

The South African Party is deeply disappointed at the result of the election. Its leaders were particularly hopeful of defeating the administration of a strenuous campaign having been waged by the Opposition against the German-South African Trade Treaty and the Government's scheme to give the natives throughout the union a certain proportion of representation in the House of Assembly. The German Trade Treaty gives Germany the benefits of the preference scheme extended to Great Britain.

MALAN RE-ELECTED

The success of Hon. D. F. Malan, Minister of Railways, in Humanedrop, Cape Province, where he defeated the South African Party candidate, J. P. Duppessis, by 244 votes, was a personal triumph, secured in the face of an adverse limitation of the boundaries of the constituency and the fact that he had to fight a very popular candidate.

It is no exaggeration to say the South African Party leaders were staggered at the loss of Stellenbosch and Paarl, both in the Cape Province, which was regarded as strongholds for them. W. B. Devilliers, Nationalist, captured the Stellenbosch seat from the former South African Party member, J. P. Louw. In Paarl, P. Detout, Nationalist, defeated P. A. Joubert, South African Party.

Everywhere, except in Natal, the country areas have given additional support to the Nationalists as compared with the last election. Sir Theodore Truiter, former Chief Commissioner of Police, and A. Stewart of the South African Party, were defeated in the George Division of the Cape Province by G. F. Brink, Nationalist, the figures being 1,920 for Brink and 970 for the South African Party candidate.

There was a complete absence throughout the Union of any tendency to depart from the traditional party divisions. Candidates of newly-province groups, such as the Liberals and various independent candidates polled only insignificant figures involving the forfeiture of their election deposits.

PREMIER KING AWAITS WORD
Ottawa, June 14.—The report that Premier MacDonald of Great Britain might hold a conference in Washington with President Hoover, on questions of disarmament and that Premier King would also attend was again the subject of questions in the House of Commons to-day. Sir George Perley, Conservative, Argenteuil, Que., questioned the Prime Minister and wanted to know whether Premier King had any official information on this report and whether he had been invited to attend this conference.

"This is a case where my honorable friend has as much information as I have," Premier King replied, intimating he had received no official advice in the matter.

Mexican Students Win Their Fight

Mexico City, June 14.—The National University building passed into the educational authorities' control again last night after forty-eight hours of occupancy by striking students. From the time the students seized it on Tuesday until they moved out in orderly manner yesterday afternoon, 100 of their number had constantly mounted guard.

President Portes Gil recovered the building without a struggle by assuring the strikers the measure freeing the university from Government control would be promulgated as soon as it was drafted. The strikers hauled down and carried away the red flags they had flown over the building.

The strike will continue until the autonomy measure is promulgated and other demands of the students' granted.

THE NEW FERRY SERVICE

STILL ANOTHER LINE OF COMMUNICATION between this part of Vancouver Island and the Mainland of the Province will be inaugurated by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to-morrow when the Motor Princess commences her run between Sidney and Steveston.

Although the new service primarily will be regarded as an extension of existing facilities for motorists, there obviously is a great deal more in it than may appear at first thought. It will bring something like 420,000 people closer together, give them new facilities for the exchange of visits for both business and pleasure, as well as adding to the other routes which have made themselves popular with the ordinary traveler and holidaymaker alike.

The company obviously has no fear that the new service will interfere with existing services connecting this city with Vancouver. Nor need it have any. Its experience apparently is guiding its policy of expansion. The arrival of the Princess Victoria twenty-six years ago represented in practical form the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's appreciation of traffic possibilities in this part of the Pacific Northwest. There were those who doubted the wisdom of providing what then was regarded by some as a too elaborate steamship for the needs of that time. In any event, it was thought that there would be no need to furnish the "flyer" of 1903 with any sister ships for some time to come. Even optimistic Captain Troup, whose vision and judgment never failed the company whom he served so long and ably, might have hesitated to predict such an expansion as has taken place since.

As in many lines of business, the developments in steamship transportation for which the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has been responsible lend emphasis to the old commercial axiom—produce the right sort of goods and the public will buy them. And at once we shall hazard the guess that this new service will become popular, that it will be well patronized from the beginning, and that history will repeat itself. We should not be surprised if by the summer of 1930 enough business will offer to warrant a second and faster vessel for the Sidney-Steveston route.

In the broadest sense, of course, the Island is vitally concerned in every expansion of transportation facilities which permit travel between them and the Mainland faster and quicker. Our insularity at times obviously has been a disability in certain economic respects; but as steamship connections grow more numerous that disability will be proportionately reduced.

TEN YEARS AGO

IN THE LATE AFTERNOON OF JUNE 14, ten years ago, Captain John Alcock and Lieutenant Arthur Brown left the ground at St. John's, Newfoundland, in their Vickers Vimy aeroplane, and sixteen hours and twelve minutes afterwards they had flown 1,880 miles and were safe and sound on Mother Earth at Clifden in Ireland. Never before had such a feat been accomplished, and the world promptly acclaimed the two daring aviators. King George knighted them, and a money prize offered for the first non-stop Atlantic flight represented a considerable material consideration. Sir Arthur Brown is still in the land of the living; but his companion lost his life when his machine crashed in France about six months after the great achievement.

Great strides in aerial development, of course, have been made since this memorable flight of ten years ago; but nothing will detract from the triumph of Alcock and Brown. It will be recalled that soon after the airmen had commenced their momentous journey their wireless propeller fell a prey to the wind. And while some apprehension was felt lest the silence of the radio instrument spelt disaster, the rapidity with which the flight was accomplished made fear for the airmen's safety very short-lived. The greater part of the distance, of course, was flown in the darkness, and the hazards were increased by heavy fog and drizzling rain. Yet for more than sixteen hours Captain Alcock piloted his frail craft at a speed of nearly two miles a minute, with the ever-present knowledge that an uncharted course stretched ahead of him, while the forbidding wastes of the Atlantic lay beneath him.

This flight of Alcock and Brown has passed into history with its glory undiminished by the achievements of the last decade. With not a little pride British peoples rejoiced that two Britons had flown the Atlantic, without a stop, before anybody else. And it will be remembered that only a week or so afterwards the British dirigible R-34 flew from Scotland to New York and back. Well may we sit back and speculate upon what new wonders the next ten years of aerial navigation will produce.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN ELECTIONS

ALTHOUGH IT WAS FREELY PRE-dicted that a majority of the electors in the Union of South Africa would vote against Premier Hertzog's Nationalist Government because of its attitude towards the flag question and its trade treaty with Germany, latest returns would seem to indicate that the Prime Minister's party will be in a much stronger position in the next House than it was in the last.

With only twelve seats out of 148 to hear from, the Nationalists have sixty-nine, the South African Party—the Opposition led by former Premier Smuts—fifty-nine; the Creswell Laborites, who support Hertzog, five; and the National Council Laborites, who are anti-Hertzog, three. In the last Legislative Assembly the Nationalists numbered sixty-three, the Laborites eighteen, and the South African Party fifty-four, a redistribution bill passed by the former Parliament having increased the representation from 135 to 148 seats.

The most interesting feature of the election, apart from what obviously is a vindication of the Hertzog Government, is the fate of Labor. It will be recalled that the party in 1924 decided by a majority vote to give sufficient support to General Hertzog to enable him to form a Government; but this decision was opposed by the extremists, who, like many others less extreme, were unable to visualize radical Labor finding anything in common with an ultra-conservative farmers' party, or at least were unable to visualize Labor being effective in such a combination, especially in view of the small minority formed by the Labor members.

While the Nationalists and Labor members continued to act in common in Parliament, the discontent grew rapidly within the Labor ranks, and although the malcontents obtained the appointment of an extra minister, this minister was eventually forced to resign. The enmity between the two sections, headed by the parliamentary leader, Colonel Creswell, and by the National Council, became so bitter, that the National Council decided to oppose the Creswell candidates, who, of course, were supported by General Hertzog.

The result of the split, as the returns so far show, is the virtual elimination of the Labor Party as a determining factor in the next Parliament. It is anticipated that Premier Hertzog will win most of the twelve seats at present in doubt; but being the case, the lead of two over all the other parties which he at present holds may grow to eight or ten and remove all necessity for any alliance with the Creswell Laborite faction.

In regard to the flag question, it should be noted that neither party referred to the issue in very settled terms. It seems to be generally regarded as a settled problem. But if the electorate still is divided on the matter, it apparently did not let it influence it upon the larger issue as between Nationalists and South African Party.

IMMIGRATION

ALTHOUGH IT VOICES THE OPINION of big business that immigrants are not being poured into Canada at a fast enough rate, The Financial Post points with a degree of satisfaction to the improvement of immigration to Canada to-day, as compared with the years immediately following the war.

The first fact emphasized by this business publication is that, contrary to the propaganda in some quarters, Canada is getting a good share of the migrants from Britain, and is actually getting more British migrants than any other single country, even including the United States. The official figures show that during 1928 a total of 54,709 people left Britain to come to British North America, 33,669 went to Australia, 22,345 to the United States, and only 25,000 elsewhere.

Canada's total immigration of 167,722 for the year to March 31 last, included 58,800 from Britain, 30,560 from the United States, 29,579 from the preferred countries of Northern Europe, and 48,703 from other countries. Viewed by way of racial origin, rather than by the countries from which they came, the 167,722 immigrants last year included 75,581 Britishers, 41,059 Northern Europeans, and 51,082 of other races.

More important than the flow of North European blood to this country, as indicating our state of national prosperity, is the fact that last year Canada welcomed home 33,793 Canadians returning from the United States, making the total arrivals from that country 64,353, against 57,330 reported as moving from Canada to United States. The balance in Canada's favor represents a considerable change from the previous annual net losses to the United States.

Opinions in Canada on immigration vary. There are those who vigorously oppose the influx of too many people through the fear of dilution of the labor market. At the other extreme are those who believe an enlarged flow of population is vital if the rate of national prosperity is to be maintained. Some interests favor increased continental immigration for economic reasons; others declare there are too many continentals arriving now for the good of our racial homogeneity. But the most recent figures give general satisfaction, for at least two reasons; first, that the flow of population, especially as regards the United States, has definitely turned towards Canada; and second, that Canada is leading all countries by a very large margin in the number of British migrants she is attracting.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

The world does move. Canada is now planning a war upon insects—from the air.—Ottawa Journal.

Windsor has reached the 75,000 population mark and feels that it will soon give the dust to Detroit.—Brantford Expositor.

Mussolini made a speech the other day to the Italian parliament lasting five hours. Still, as he holds seven cabinet positions his five-hour speech equals seven speeches of about forty-two minutes each—about the same length of speech as the regulations at Ottawa allow.—Toronto Star.

THE PREDOMINANCE OF MONTREAL

The development of Montreal to its present position has been an expensive undertaking, but the Canadian people are doubtless satisfied with the dividends accruing from the investment. They take pride in Montreal's commercial advance and share with Montrealers the bright hopes for the future which the Harbor Commission expresses. Where they cannot sympathize with Montreal is in the belief that Montreal's present preponderance must at all costs be preserved, that "the interests of Montreal are paramount," to use the words of Mr. Taschereau, in questions affecting Canadian export trade routes. Montreal's hostility to the Hudson Bay Railway and the St. Lawrence waterway project has not enhanced its prestige with the rest of the country.

A THOUGHT

For he remembered that they were but flesh; a wind that passeth away and cometh not again.—Psalms LXXVIII 39.

Loose Ends

By H. R. W.

PURELY FOR the purpose of investigating one of the pressing problems of our time, I spent the other evening with the Young Men's Association. I wanted to see flaming youth flaming, and found to my amazement that it doesn't flame at all. Smoking rather than many cigarettes is the nearest it gets to anything of the sort. An evening among the Very Young, in fact, is highly moral and deadly dull. If you go to any of these popular country dancing resorts of Saturday evening you will be reassured to find your sons and daughters sipping nothing more alarming than ice cream sodas or eating indigestible sandwiches, while a few of the less imaginative ones munch hot buns and money, refreshments which are allowed to cool or melt, according to their nature, while their owners perform upon the dancing floor. The talk around these tables, as you overhear it, indicates no deadly sin, and nor does it justify any confidence that the mentality of the race is expanding. Only by smoking endless cigarettes and playing with cigarette lighters which never light, can modern youth keep itself from being bored into exhaustion.

NOR CAN you find any sign of decadence in the much-maligned dancing of our times. True, there is no sense in it, but you don't expect that in boys and girls in their teens when their fathers and mothers are using more mental energy on their bridge than on their business. But you can't accuse our sons and daughters of any lack of originality. In our youth everybody used to dance the same way with a deadly Victorian uniformity. Our more imaginative offspring all dance differently with individual eccentricities. In my investigation I found one rummy youth in brown tweeds who glided slowly, with steps five feet long, precisely like a slow-motion picture. Another bounded in the exact manner of an agitated kangaroo. An artistic-looking young fellow, who was probably a house painter's apprentice, oozed forward with neck outstretched and bobbing like a giraffe in flight. A sleek, low, whose hair was plastered down with shoeblackening, stood still most of the time, moving seldom and then not far, while he maintained a dreamy gaze on the ceiling. But what attracted me most was a fat boy—he must have weighed over 200—who had adopted the dance as the most painless method of reducing. He said he was a master of the variety drag, to demonstrate which he propelled his great, sweltering, oscillating bulk forward and backward like a happy gazelle, kicking his legs meanwhile in lateral directions, which gave him and his partner ample space with neck outstretched and bobbing down like a jelly. And the meek way the girls follow these inspired steps around, adjusting themselves instantly to their peculiar means of navigation, suggests that the male of the species is still dominant and that the female is not growing in intelligence.

BUT the point I make is that there was nothing wrong with these young people. The most distressing sight I saw was a saxophone player who wore grey spats with his tuxedo. The only man who appeared to have tasted liquor was not of the younger generation, but belonged to my own time. He found difficulty steering between the tables and insisted on blighting softly to himself, while the worst of the flaming youths and maidens could do was to drop their cigarette ashes in the tea cups. From all of which you can conclude that the race is improving or disintegrating according to your own notions. My own idea is that it is disintegrating not through being evil, but through tending to become too angelic altogether for this rough world.

AS a matter of fact, this whole Continent is hopelessly behind the older and supposedly more effete nations in the art of systematic dissipation. Over there a summer rounder performs feats of physical prowess, which make our endurance flights, our marathon dancing and flagpole sitting seem pretty childish. In a book by one Basil Woon, entitled "From Deauville to Monte Carlo," we are informed that the fashionable gentlemen of Deauville rigorously follow this daily schedule: 8 a.m., coffee; 10 a.m., hot bath; 10:30 a.m., sleep; 12 noon, rise and dress; 12:30 p.m., second cocktail; 12:45 p.m., third cocktail; 1 p.m., fourth cocktail; 1:10 p.m., dip in ocean; 1:15 p.m., fifth cocktail; 1:25 p.m., dress for lunch; 1:35 p.m., sixth cocktail at Ciro's; 1:50 p.m., luncheon; 2:45 p.m., at the races; 4:30 p.m., seventh cocktail at Ciro's; 5 p.m., polo and tea; 6 p.m., eighth cocktail at Luigi's; 6:15 p.m., at baccarat rooms; 9 p.m., dress for dinner; 9:30 p.m., ninth cocktail at Ciro's; 10 p.m., dinner at Casino; 11:30 p.m., baccarat; 3 a.m., supper at Ambassadeurs; 3:30 a.m., baccarat; 3:45 a.m., tenth cocktail at Baccarat Bar; 5 a.m., champagne at Baccarat Bar; 5:30 a.m., ham and eggs at Luigi's; 7:30 a.m., change to breeches; 8 a.m., canter down the sands. Despite the problems of disarmament negotiations and everything else, surely there is no need to despair of a civilization which produces men strong enough to follow such a programme at Deauville for three weeks, and then to repeat it at Le Touquet, Biarritz, Monte Carlo and so on forever.

THE oft-repeated idea that families on this Continent are too small and that married people are not doing their duty by the race seems, after all, to be quite wet. Probably it was started by someone who is interested financially in encouraging the arrival of new babies—the manufacturers of perambulators, perhaps, or the people who make garments peculiar to the human animal when it is very young. Actually the increase in the population of America, according to figures for the United States just published, ought to be sufficient even to satisfy these people. The records reveal that every twenty-two and a half seconds a new American is added to the population of the Republic. Every hour the Stars and Stripes waves over 150 more citizens and by the end of every week 26,923 newcomers, a small city in themselves, have arrived. This is at the rate of 116,866 every month or 1,400,000 a year.

THE Census Bureau proclaims exultingly that no nation in the history of the world, not even the second peoples of Europe nor the teeming races of the Orient, has ever grown so fast. And still the small-family legend is universally believed. Looking after this increasing population is quite a job for Uncle Sam. He builds one new dwelling every fifty-five seconds besides countless apartments and hotels. At this rate in a hundred years, if the feeble arithmetic of this column is no worse than usual, there will be a population of 250,000,000 people next door to Canada. Where it will all end in a thousand years or so happily is not an immediate problem.

THE WELSH TEAM'S VISIT

To the Sports Editor: To many it is still difficult to answer the question, "Why do these tip-top teams from the Old Country tour Canada?" "If they are accustomed to drawing gates of ten or twelve at home, seeing that they are professionals, why do they come here to play to thousands only, or sometimes even to hundreds?" Is it simply that they have nothing better to do in the summer, or that they come merely for a holiday trip? A tour like this is real work, there is a tremendous lot of organizing necessary, moreover there is always the Ottawa, June 14.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated in the House to-day that the only Government bill of any consequence to be introduced was an amendment to the election law.

More permanent sidewalks are to be laid in the business portion of the city and two are projected for residential sections, one for King's Road and the other for Oswego Street, it was decided at the City Council meeting last night.

After the church parade on Sunday at Macaulay Plains, Drill Instructor Mulcahy of the Fifth Regiment, was presented with a long service medal by the district officer commanding, Col. Holmes.

J.B.A.A. crews are gradually rounding into shape for the N.P.A.A.O. regatta to be held in Portland next month.

The B.C. Review, published in London, England, makes reference to the efforts of S. M. Matson to interest capital in the Lenora mine at Mount Sicker.

Through the efforts of Messrs. J. H. Todd and Sons and William Munroe, of this city, the first salmon to be caught by traps in B.C. will be taken from the water on July 1, or a little before that date.

Parliament Session Dates Are Discussed

Ottawa, June 14.—The suggestion that Parliament should start its sessions in November instead of February, was again suggested in the House of Commons yesterday. G. G. Coote, U.F.A. Macleod, asked Premier King for an assurance such a change would be made.

Parliament used to be opened in the fall, the Prime Minister replied. He had prepared a statement showing the length of the sessions for the various years, which he would supply to the member asking the question. It showed the sessions opened in the fall had lasted as long into the following year as those opened after January 1. The practice of starting the sessions before Christmas had been discontinued by the Government of Sir Robert Borden. It was Mr. King's impression that this had been done largely as a result of representation from Western members who objected to spending so much time away from home.

The Prime Minister said all he could

WOMEN SAT IN PARLIAMENT IN MIDDLE AGES

Mrs. Astor Is Not the First Woman to Sit in British House

London, June 14 (By the Canadian Press)—Many people imagine that Lady Astor was the first woman to sit in a British Parliament, but in the Middle Ages women were an essential part of the deliberative assemblies, says "Overseas."

In the reign of Edward I. for example, the Abbess of Shaftesbury, Berking, St. Mary of Winchester and of Wilton, were summoned to Westminster, while in the reign of Edward III, a number of women of high degree, including Mary, Countess of Norfolk; Eleanor, Countess of Ormond; Anne Despenser, Countess of Pembroke, and Matilda, Countess of Oxford, were members of the National Council, and they seem to have made their presence felt just as pointedly as do the women members of the House of Commons today.

Parliament, during the Women's Suffrage movement, used frequently to be invaded or interrupted by advocates of women's rights anxious to redress the wrong of their sex. But this, again, was merely a case of history repeating itself, for John Stow, the tailor-antiquarian, records that "openly to the Upper House of Parliament and delivered letters to the Duke of Gloucester, to the Archbishops and the other lords because he (the Duke of Gloucester) would not deliver his wife Jacqueline out of her grievous imprisonment (she was at the time detained as prisoner by the Duke of Burgundy) and suffering her there to remain unkindly whilst he lived in adultery contrary to the law of God and the honorable estate of matrimony." It is gratifying to note that as a result of this courage, a discussion Parliament was induced to "do something about it," even if Jacqueline of Gloucester, the lady on whose behalf they pleaded, was one of the most married women in history, who in the course of a short life of thirty-five years acquired four husbands, one of them bigamously and one trigamously.

PRIVILEGE CANCELLED

Ladies at one time during the eighteenth century had admission not only to the public galleries, but actually to the sacred floor of the House itself, where they would sometimes sit by the side of members. The ultimate abandonment of this privilege in favor of absolute exclusion came about through a dispute of factionalism on the part of the ladies. A great debate in February, 1778, had drawn to the House an exceptionally large number of ladies. Not content with the galleries they trespassed upon some seats from which they were customarily excluded. As members themselves were crowded out, and order was given to eject the ladies. The order, however, was called to give than to execute. The ladies, having come to the House for an evening's amusement, saw no adequate reason for not getting it, and the arguments of the authorities left them coldly unconvinced. In vain the officials implored and threatened in turn. The ladies absolutely declined to move. The laughter and standing and jeered and told the officials with devastating candor what they thought of them. The authorities were in despair. They could not use force, and on the other hand, it was not possible to permit the mandate of the House to be flouted. In the difficulty they adopted the only course open to them. They opposed obstinacy to obstinacy and in the long run won the day, but as a contemporary account declares, "it was a full two hours before the skirts of the last of the ladies disappeared through the doorway of the House."

After this obstreperous exploit, so rigorous was the ban against ladies that Mrs. Sheridan (the lovely Elizabeth Linley, wife of Richard Brinsley Sheridan) was driven to the expedient of wearing male attire in order to secure admission to the galleries to hear her husband's eloquence.

W.C.T.U. Plans Campaign In Sunday Schools

Oshawa, June 14.—A national education campaign through the Sunday schools of Canada as to the nature and effects of alcohol as a beverage will be conducted by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, it was decided yesterday at the third session of the dominion convention of the union here.

Mrs. Gordon Wright of London was elected president for the next two years and Mrs. Louise McKinney, Clarendon, Alta., vice-president. Mrs. T. H. Wright, Hazelton, B.C., was chosen national secretary and Mrs. James Mabon, Montreal, national treasurer.

SAANICH GIVES AID TO MOTHERS' SUNSHINE CAMP

The cause of the Sunshine Camp for Mothers, established at Sooke by the Social Service League, was warmly and enthusiastically supported before the Saanich Council last night by Reeve William Crouch, who vacated the chair to Councilor H. C. Oldfield in order to appeal for a grant of $100 towards the expenses of the camp.

He regretted that Rev. Father Scheelan and Mrs. C. de V. Schofield had not been able to appear and voice an appeal, and told of the many mothers and families of Saanich who have benefited in past years from camps of the Social Service League.

The grant of $100 was passed unanimously.

HONORED GUEST AT FAREWELL FUNCTIONS

MRS. J. D. MACLEAN

who will leave shortly for Ottawa, was yesterday afternoon the guest of honor of the Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., at a farewell affair, and this afternoon the Liberal Women's Forum held a tea in her honor.

The Rev. W. W. Peck and Mrs. Peck of Vancouver recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Mr. James Lawrence of Vancouver, second son of Mr. W. Lawrence of Victoria and the late Mrs. Lawrence. The wedding will take place quietly in Vancouver early in July.

Word has been received by Mrs. F. B. Pemberton that her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Harvey will leave London at the end of the month, sailing for Quebec, where Mr. Harvey will be engaged in engineering work at Chicoutimi on the Saguenay River.

Word has been received here by members of his family that Professor R. S. Baker, who has been studying in California since early in the year, has been awarded the degree of Doctor of Bio-psychology by the university. Some years ago he gained his doctor's degree in psychology, in which subject he had been a college lecturer.

Mrs. Hodges, L.A.B., entertained at her home, 1409 Hillside Avenue, her son, intermediate and junior pianoforte pupils at a party for the closing of the school term before the holidays. A pleasant time was spent in games and dancing. During the evening Betty Strachan presented Mrs. Hodges with a pyrex dish in a beautiful solid silver stand and also a silver bon-bon dish as gifts from the pupils.

Miss Eileen Shaw entertained at a luncheon at the Victoria Golf Club today in honor of Miss Marion Wilson, when her guests included Miss Wilson, Mrs. Harold Wilson, Mrs. W. B. Wilson, Mrs. C. R. H. Taylor, the Misses Helen and Tommy Wilson, Miss Mary Campbell, Miss Alice Cotton, Miss R. Clay, Miss Inez Ker, Miss Patsy Heming, Miss Sheila Parr, Miss Anna McBride, Miss Helen MacIntosh and Miss Doris Gibson.

At the garden party held in the garden of Mrs. H. W. Mays, Cowichan Station, on Wednesday, a musical programme of much charm was given by Mrs. Otto Weller, Mrs. Reta McNeil, Miss Merle North and Miss Lora Blake. A dance number, which was particularly enjoyed, was given by Mrs. Weller, Mrs. Reta McNeil and Miss Dorothy Scott was accompanist.

A letter received from Mr. Harry Maynard, who with Mrs. Maynard has been for the last few months enjoying a trip to England and the Continent, states that he and Mrs. Maynard were leaving London for Bude, Cornwall, Mr. Maynard's native place, where they proposed celebrating Mr. Maynard's sixty-fifth birthday on June 19. They had been staying at the Savoy Hotel, London, for about seven weeks, and after their sojourn in Bude would return to London on July 5. Before leaving for Victoria Mr. and Mrs. Maynard will visit Brighton.

Yesterday afternoon, at the home of the president, Mrs. W. J. Cullum, 1114 Fairfield Road, the Friendly Help held a most enjoyable tea, in aid of the allocation fund for the Local Council of Women, Mrs. Cullum was assisted in receiving the guests by her daughters, Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Lister. Mrs. R. Radbourne and Mrs. Sabiston were conveners of the tea, and Mrs. M. R. Lawson presided at the daintily arranged tea table. Mrs. Piller giving much pleasure by reading the tea cups. Delightful solos were sung during the afternoon by Miss Dorothy Parsons, accompanied by Mrs. Wallis, and Mrs. Anderson, accompanied by Mrs. Reid.

A successful silver tea was held recently by the Robert Burns McMicking Chapter I.O.D.E. at the home of Mrs.

FAREWELL TO MRS. MACLEAN

Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., Entertained in Honor of Member Leaving City

The Lady Douglas Chapter held a very successful farewell tea for Mrs. J. D. MacLean at the Alexandra Club on Thursday afternoon, the rooms being tastefully decorated with beautiful spring flowers by Mrs. Puckle and Mrs. Stewart of the house committee.

Among the guests invited to meet Mrs. MacLean were Mrs. A. P. Tolmie, Mrs. R. F. Green, Mrs. R. L. Phillips and Mrs. Dennis Harris, the regent, Mrs. R. B. McMicking, with Mrs. S. F. Walker, receiving the guests.

Previous to the serving of tea Mrs. W. H. Wilson, kindly rendered two songs, accompanied by Mrs. Clifford Warn, who were both presented with charming corsage bouquets by Mrs. Wilson's little daughter.

At the conclusion of tea Mrs. McMicking, on behalf of the chapter, presented Mrs. MacLean with a very handsome travelling purse with the love and good wishes of all, and the hope that before very long Mrs. MacLean would be returning to Victoria.

In thanking the chapter Mrs. MacLean said that her work in the order would be among the pleasantest associations of her life, and a memory she would always treasure.

Mrs. J. D. Gordon wished, on behalf of the chapter, a safe and pleasant journey to Mrs. MacLean and much happiness and good fortune to her and her family in the east. Her example as a good citizen and as an ideal mother was one that all her friends were proud of, and was an example that others would do well to follow. The chapter appreciated all the kind help and useful work of Mrs. MacLean during her years in office.

There was a very good attendance, nearly forty members of the chapter being present, and took the opportunity of a farewell chat with Mrs. MacLean.

WOULD PROTECT RURAL TEACHERS

Education Department Seeks to Insure Safety of Young Women

With a view to protecting from possible harm young women who are engaged in teaching in rural sections of the Province, Hon. Joshua Minchcliffe, Minister of Education, has sent the following circular letter to school board secretaries in outland areas:

"The Department of Education has come to the conclusion that young women who are engaged as teachers in small rural schools should under consideration remain in the school building after school hours without the presence of one or more children, or friends.

"I, therefore, request your board to make such arrangements as are possible in your district to insure that, if you have a young woman as teacher, she shall not be left alone while she is engaged in the discharge of her duties at the school.

"It would also point out that it is the prescribed duty of the school board to see that the school is swept and kept clean, and if the board makes an arrangement with the teacher for undertaking this additional work, care should be taken to see that she is not left alone in the building while the work is going on."

D. Sheret 131 Clarence Street, Mrs. R. B. McMicking, honorary regent of the chapter, declared the affair open, and also drew the winning ticket for the "hope chest," Miss M. K. Williams, 1715 Garrison Street, holding this number. In the absence of the first vice-regent, Miss Hilda Margetta, the second vice-regent, Miss Claire Allen, presented Mrs. McMicking with a beautiful bouquet. A musical programme was given by Mrs. Hilda Margetta, Mrs. M. Morton and Miss M. Watson gave vocal numbers, Mrs. C. C. Warn and Miss Dorothy Morton acting as accompanists. Miss Morton also played several pianoforte numbers. Miss Winifred Sheret, Miss Nellie Redgrave and Miss Claire Allen were conveners of the programme. The regent, Mrs. Bolt, presented Mrs. Sheret with a bouquet in appreciation of her kindness in lending her home for the occasion. Tea was served to the guests, Mrs. H. W. Davey and Miss Hilda Margetta being in charge.

Greasy Sink
A little turpentine is magic in cleaning a greasy sink. It removes it quickly and the turpentine smell evaporates quickly.

Cleaning Accessories
Artificial flowers, delicate party handkerchiefs and other accessories can be cleaned perfectly by putting into a fruit jar, covering with non-inflammable cleaning fluid, putting the top on and shaking well this way and that. Rinse the same way in clean fluid.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion
Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing a disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Laying aside all digestive aids and instead set from any drugstore some Bisulphate of Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisulphate of Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. (Adv.)

Nanaimo Greet Many Pioneers

Nanaimo, June 14—Nearly 500 members of the Vancouver branch of the Pioneers of British Columbia held their annual excursion here on Wednesday, and were addressed by Premier Tolmie.

The visitors arrived on the Princess Elaine and were welcomed on the wharf by a committee of the Native Sons. Luncheon was served at the Malaspina Hotel.

Following a tour of points of interest in the vicinity of Nanaimo, the visitors gathered at the Central Sports Ground, where Mayor Busby extended a civic welcome and introduced Hon. S. F. Tolmie.

The Premier told of the early days of Vancouver and the great fire which in 1886 had destroyed the early settlement. He sketched the notable progress which had been attained by Vancouver and foresaw rapid advances for the Lower Mainland.

The visitors returned to Vancouver at 6 o'clock, the steamer Princess Adelaide making a special trip for their convenience.

Engagement of Prince Denied

London, June 14.—Rumors that the Princess Ingrid, daughter of the Swedish Crown Prince, was engaged or about to be betrothed to the Prince of Wales were strongly denied last night by an unnamed "high court official," to whom The Daily Mail ascribed the statement, that there was not a word of truth in any of these suggestions linking the Princess with members of the British Royal Family.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MRS. MARY ELDER

Mrs. Elder will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

HURRYING THE DAYS AWAY

It is a habit of adults to forget today and look forward to tomorrow. In the first year of baby's life, in fact in any year, the parent's attention is fixed on baby's future instead of on baby's delightful and interesting present.

Ignoring baby's first feeble gropings toward sound and light, his aimless and amusing efforts to use his hands, the parents wonder: "When do you suppose he will smile?"

At three months they are hunching him into pillows, hoping that this will help him to learn to sit erect. At seven months they put him into a walker, expecting that this leg exercise is going to teach him to walk. As soon as he is running about they deplore the nuisance of the "investigative period" and wish that he were through with it and in school where he would be out from under foot. At five they are looking forward to music lessons, when he may fill them with pride by his performance. At twelve they are longing for the day when he'll be out of the cot and when he is through school, they worry about his escapades and wish he were married and settled down. When he is, well, then they turn tail and long for the days when he was a baby. Because once a child is married, he or she no longer belongs to the parents. It is so that parents must wait until it is too late to enjoy a baby before realizing this ancient truth.

This isn't exaggerated. How many times a day do you anticipate the future and long for the next period of the baby's life? Yet babies are interesting every day of their lives. They can't be reaching a platform of achievement each day, but the slow steps up to each platform should be watched and noted and enjoyed by the parent. Why worry about the coming of the first smile, or the first tooth, or the first day when baby can sit up, or say "Mama" or take his first step? The mother isn't able to make these happen except that it is she who sees that baby has good food, plenty of sunshine and fresh air and perfect freedom to use every muscle in his body. It is her business to keep him out of tight places, tight carriages, heavy covers, huddling pillows, and instead leave his legs and arms free to move and put him in a place where he can throw them around and turn over and lift his head and sit up, occasionally, for as long as his weak back holds him (without support). That is what the mother has to do, and when she has done that, she's done all any mortal can, to her baby reach these natural stages of growth and development.

Nature made a baby so that he would grow. And Nature did not plan on pillows or walkers, either, as an aid to these natural activities.

So when mothers write: "Can I prop the baby up now?" or "Shall I hold hands and teach him how to walk?" I feel sorry that they are so anxious to hurry baby into another stage of his growth before baby has shown by his straining ~~to~~ use his own muscles to use his legs, that he is ready for it.

RUSSIAN ARTIST NOW SINGS IN POOR PARISH

Marie Karinskaya, Famous Singer, Now Delights Alberta Church Congregation

Edmonton, Alta., June 14 (By the Canadian Press).—Once one of the best known singers in the Russian empire and the dearly beloved idol of hundreds of Russian soldiers and poor people whose lives she had brightened with her lovely voice and whose homes she had cheered with her generosity, Marie Karinskaya, to-day is the "Dearly Beloved Sister" of the smallest and poorest Baptist congregation in Canada and, according to her own story, she is happy as she never was in the days when she had every luxury beauty and talent could command and money could buy, when she sang before kings and emperors, even when she received 183 decorations, some of them the most coveted the Czar could bestow, for her social work and her efforts on behalf of the Russian soldiers in the firing line.

Madame Karinskaya is at present a visitor in Edmonton, where she had delighted audiences with her singing. Madame Karinskaya sang eleven times before the Russian royal family, and remembers the royal household of the murdered Czar and Czarine well.

"What was the Czarine like?" asked the reporter who interviewed her as she lay ill in bed with tonsillitis in the home of an Edmonton friend from the Ukraine.

"Oh she was beautiful, lovely red hair and a real elegant woman," she replied, "but she was a hysterical woman."

"And the Czar?"

"He was a charming and gracious man, very shy."

When the revolution took her away from her palatial home in Petrograd with its twenty servants, and her summer place at Moscow and the brilliant career in which she received as much as $4,000 for singing for a single night before the socially elect of the world's capitals, Madame Karinskaya did not mind what did cut her to the soul was the bloodshed of the revolution, she said.

"My politics are peace, happiness and certainly 'Thou shalt not kill,'" she said. "I did not mind losing wealth. I did not care for such things nor need them. I saw the revolution and went through some terrible experiences. I do not condemn them, the revolutionists, but I left Russia."

NORMAL SCHOOL CONCLUDES TERM

Banquet and Dance Last Night Marks End of Summer Term

Students of the Provincial Normal School gathered at the Chamber of Commerce last night for their annual banquet, marking the close of the summer term.

Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, Minister of Education, was the guest of honor, while D. L. MacLaurin acted as toastmaster.

V. L. Denton proposed the toast to the Department of Education, Mr. Hinchcliffe replying. A toast to the guests was sponsored by George Ferguson, a student, and H. Creelman replied. Miss Dorothy Margison and William Mowat acknowledged the toast to the 1928 class which was proposed by B. S. Freeman.

Walter Shaw proposed the toast to the ladies, Miss Winnifred Beale replying while the toast to the faculty was proposed by John MacLaurin and acknowledged by C. B. Wood.

Singing by the school choir and solos by Beverly Pye followed the banquet and the gathering was concluded by dancing.

Among the guests were Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe and Mrs. Hinchcliffe, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. FIRST AVIATION GARDEN PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Irwin Entertain Flying Club Members at Farm Near Toronto

Toronto, Ont., June 14.—A farm of 200 acres is a good place in which to hold a flying party. So thought Mr. and Mrs. Norman Irwin when they gave the first aviation garden party on record in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin were host and hostess to the flying club members. Sped on by a strong tail wind the aerial visitors from Leaside Airport arrived at the Irwin home, situated on the Kingston Road, near Whitby, just fifteen minutes after leaving Toronto.

Twenty-four of the seventy guests present arrived by air in the twelve multi-colored Moth light planes that stood in imposing array on Mr. Irwin's private aerodrome, while the occupants enjoyed his hospitality. During the afternoon exhibitions of stunt-flying were carried out.

SHRINE PARTY HERE TO-DAY

Columbus, Ohio, Temple Represented By Group Visiting City

Returning home from the Los Angeles Imperial Council Shrine meeting, members of the Aladdin Temple of Columbus, Ohio, reached Victoria this afternoon en route to their homes.

The temple, with a party of 200, including its patrol, band and chanters, is in charge of Potentate Allen W. Williams, well-known Columbus business man. The return trip is being made through the Canadian Rockies.

This is Aladdin's eighth Shrine trip to the coast and its third itinerary through Canada, Minneapolis and St. Paul at the final stopping place. Transportation and hotel arrangements are in charge of Past Potentate Earl J. Burkert, who has filled this role many years.

The Aladdin Temple held two memorial services in Vancouver, one at the Cenotaph in memory of the Canadian soldiers who fell in the World War and one in honor of the temple's most illustrious deceased member, the late President Warren G. Harding, whose last public utterance was made at Stanley Park in Vancouver.

The Harding service was held at the Harding memorial arch, erected in Stanley Park by the International Kiwanis Club, which marks the spot where President Harding spoke in public for the last time shortly before his death occurred.

A notable member of Aladdin's party is Wilfred E. Joseph, one of the most widely known Shriner in the land. He has been a member of the Imperial Council for thirty-seven years, and is out-ranked in this respect by only one other member of that body.

However, "Joe," as he is known to the nobility, holds a championship for tenure of office as a recorder. He has been recorder of Aladdin Temple for thirty-seven consecutive years, a record unequalled by any other recorder. He is a thirty-third degree Mason.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

FLOSSING UP THE NURSERY

One mother says: We moved into a rented house upon which we wished to expend little money, for we hoped soon to have our own home. But when beds, chiffonier and dresser were installed in the children's room the effect was prosy. I added interest by pasting on the upper third of the walls, paper silhouettes illustrating Mother Goose fables and fairy stories with which the little folk were already familiar. I added a table and four chairs, wee size, purchased "knock down" and painted. These had been coated with a bright color. Unbleached cheesecloth, bought for a few cents a yard and dyed to match table and chairs made window curtains.

Silhouettes may be purchased for about twenty-five cents a package at any bookstore carrying school supplies. Department stores carry the unpainted furniture which is much cheaper if bought "knocked down." Dad can set it up in very little time. Any drygoods shop or interior decorator's establishment carries the unbleached cheesecloth. The total cost of revivifying the room was scarcely more than five dollars plus a little effort on Mother's and Dad's part. The reward in joy for the children was out of all proportion!

Slipping Heels

If shoes are too large or for other reasons slip at the heels, glue in a piece of elastic, being careful that no wrinkles are left in it.

Egg Stains

When serving eggs for a meal, instead of having to scour each piece of silver separately, try putting some salt soap in an aluminum pot of hot water and standing all silver in it while you wash the dishes. All stains will remove easily, afterwards.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Make Suds Quickly.. but be sure you make SAFE SUDS!

One tub of suds looks much like any other tub of suds . . . It's what the suds are made from that means either risky washing or safe washing.

And you should think of your hands . . . everyone knows what harsh suds will do to them!

The purity of Sunlight Soap means safety for both clothes and hands. It is this purity of Sunlight which makes it dissolve freely. And Sunlight's gentle suds, so quickly formed . . . always cleanse thoroughly and above all . . . safely.

Other laundry soaps are never really satisfactory to the women who have once used Sunlight. That's why millions of bars the world over are bought for every wash day.

Look for the $5,000 Sunlight Guarantee of Purity on every carton. It means real economy—longer life to your clothes—protection to your hands.

Two British Golfers to Meet In Final of Amateur Tourney

Tolley, a Former Champion, to Meet Scottish Carpenter

Tolley Pressed to Win From Rex Hartley, One Up; John Smith Defeats John Dawson, Last U.S. Player in Tournament, After Thrilling Nineteen-hole Struggle; After Being Dormie Three Dawson Loses Next Four Holes and Match; Tolley Plays Usual Inconsistent Game.

Sandwich, Eng., June 14—Cyril Tolley, former amateur golf champion of Great Britain, and John Smith, young Scottish carpenter, will meet in the final of the British amateur golf championship to-morrow over the St. George's course, following the semi-final matches played here this afternoon. In the semi-finals Smith provided an upset by defeating John Dawson of Chicago, last of the U.S. players, after nineteen holes of thrilling play. Tolley was also pressed to the limit to win from Rex Hartley, one up.

Dawson was dormie three in his match with Smith, and then lost the next four holes for the match.

Tolley, Dawson, Hartley and John Smith entered the semi-final round by winning their matches in this morning's round.

Tolley defeated Major Keith Thornburn by one hole, while Dawson, trimmed A. A. J. Evans, London, barister, 6 and 5. Hartley defeated Edward Tipler, London, Eng., 5 and 3, and Smith beat Hon. Michael Scott, 2 and 1.

Tolley, with his usual great power and characteristic lack of control, off it at moments, found himself square at the eighth hole and 1 up at the turn.

IS TWO DOWN
Visits to bunkers and a plunge into the "Suez Canal" at the fourteenth found him two down with four to play, but he proceeded to shoot the next three well enough to win them.

A birdie four at the long fifteenth retrieved the first one then he gave Thornburn another chance by sending his tee shot wide of the green at the short sixteenth but Tolley, displaying his reserve skill, got his partner, and won the hole. He won the contention with a four to go dormie and had no difficulty halving the eighteenth.

FIVE C'S WILL MEET ALBIONS
Winners of Last Week's Cricket Matches Play at Beacon Hill To-morrow

In the league cricket matches scheduled for to-morrow the University of the C's, league champions, will journey up-island to meet Cowichan at Duncan, while the Albions and Five C's will play at Beacon Hill. The Wanderers will engage in a friendly match with the University School at Mount Tolmie.

All matches will start at 2:30 o'clock. At Beacon Hill the winners of last week's matches will meet. Last Saturday the Albions defeated Cowichan, while the C's defeated the Inco's.

The teams will be: Wanderers—F. L. Watson (captain), R. A. Wilcox, A. Geddes, A. Chippa, Captain A. J. Porter, A. J. Darcus, H. Leishab, M. H. Dunn, A. J. Collett, F. Bosson and D. W. Davies.

Five C's—Eden Quainton, Eric Quainton, Edwards, Pendray, Halkett, J. Payne, Attwell, Butterworth, Galt, Pillar and P. Payne. Reserve, J. Payne.

OLD COUNTRY CRICKET
London, June 14.—Middlesex won their English county cricket match against Hampshire at Lords, by six wickets. The scores: Middlesex 192 and 129 for four wickets; Hampshire 154 and 165.

Kent defeated Leicestershire at Tunbridge Wells by 87 runs, with scores of 157 and 220 against 144 and 182. Freeman, though he suffered a sprained shoulder yesterday which will keep him out of the first test match between England and South Africa to-morrow, was able to take four Leicestershire second innings wickets for 60 runs.

The match between Worcestershire and Nottinghamshire at Worcester was left drawn when rain prevented further play to-day. Nottingham scored 350 for four wickets declared, and Worcestershire 44 for seven wickets.

London, June 14.—A full card of cricket matches was staged in England yesterday after rain had spoiled most of the games Wednesday. Surrey crushed Glamorgan at the Kennington Oval in the only match which was finished. Scores yesterday were:

Surrey, 289 runs for six wickets, declared; Glamorgan, 37 and 183. Surrey won by one innings and 75 runs. Hampshire, 154 and 165; Middlesex, 192 and 129 for four wickets.

Yorkshire, 219 (Holmes, 140 not out); Northants, 102.

Sussex, 143; Essex, 184.

Kent, 157 and 220; Leicestershire, 144 and 76 runs for two wickets.

Nottingham, 350 for four wickets, declared (Gunn, 164 not out); Worcester, 44 runs for seven wickets.

Gloucestershire vs. Cambridge University—Gloucestershire, 220 for three wickets (Hammond, 113 not out). Minor Counties, 201 and 66 runs for one wicket; South Africa, 139.

Oxford, 160; Lancashire, 218.

London, June 14.—England's team for the first cricket test match with South Africa, opening at Birmingham on Saturday, suffered a severe blow yesterday when A. P. Freeman, noted bowler, sprained his shoulder while playing for his county, Kent, against Leicestershire.

England has already been compelled to break the celebrated opening pair, Jack Hobbs and H. Sutcliffe, owing to an injury to the former. R. W. V. Robins, Middlesex amateur, who has been bowling in brilliant form this season, may be selected to fill Freeman's place.

Peden Will Ride In His First Pro Event To-night

Bill Peden, Victoria's crack bicycle rider, will compete in his first professional race to-night at Toronto, according to a telegram received to-day by the Sports Editor of The Times. Peden will take part in a twenty-mile team race with Bobbie Waltham as a partner.

According to Peden, racing is going good in the east and during the meet in Montreal the stands were packed to capacity. The outdoor track in Montreal will open about July 1.

"Orchy" states he is feeling fine and hopes to make a success in the pro ranks.

LOCAL RIDERS ARE FAVORED TO WIN RACE

Pete Tyson Or Lewis Rush Expected to Win Colonist Event To-night

Fifty-four Riders Entered; H. Davies Leads Contingent From Vancouver

With Pete Tyson and Lewis Rush, two local riders, heavy favorites to win, the annual Daily Colonist bicycle road race will be staged to-night, starting from the corner of Quadra Street and King's Road. The class "A" riders will get away at 7:30 o'clock and the competitors in classes "B", "C", "D" and "E" will follow at two-minute intervals. Chief of Police John Fry is acting as starter.

Fifty-four riders, have entered the event, including a number of competitors from Vancouver. H. Davies, brother of Jim Davies, three times winner of the event, leads the Mainland contingent. Davies has been turning in some fine performances in Vancouver events, and is expected to give the local riders a hot race. Twelve riders are entered in class "A".

In class "B" fifteen riders will compete, including three from the Mainland. This is the largest entry of all the classes. Eleven riders, including two from Vancouver, will start in class "C", while six will ride in class "D". In class "E", which is for youngsters under thirteen years of age, there is a heavy entry.

The progress of the different riders at certain points, their names, names of officials and all the necessary information of the event will be brought to the large crowd by the assistance of a "mike" and loudspeaker. This work is being carried out by the Radio-electric, who are assisting along with numerous others to make the race a success.

All announcements will be made from a large truck situated at the corner of Quadra Street and Kings Road, and will be clearly heard for blocks away.

The riders in the different classes, with their numbers, follow:

SIDNEY NEED WIN TO-NIGHT

Must Defeat Sons of Canada to Hold Undisputed Lead in Ball League

Following their victory Monday night over the Jokers, Sons of Canada, last year's champions in the Senior Amateur Baseball League, will be out for their second victory to-night when they meet Sidney, present league leaders, at the Royal Athletic Park.

In order to retain undisputed possession of first place the millmen need an victory. A defeat would put them on even terms with the Jokers and top position. Should the Sons win they will hurdle the Jokers and Eagles going into second position.

Jack Curtis, the Sons southpaw, will occupy the mound for them, while Brousseau will hurl for Sidney.

The riders in the different classes, with their numbers, follow:

Class "A"—1, George Farmer; 2, W. S. Robbins; 3, Len Harman; 4, David McCreedy; 5, Pete Tyson; 6, G. D. Parrott; 7, J. P. Taylor; 8, Lewis Rush; 9, J. H. Bennett; 10, Beverly Breen; 11, Richard Jackson; 12, H. Davies, Vancouver.

Betting Will Not Be Permitted At Races in Omaha

Lincoln, Neb., June 14.—The Nebraska Supreme Court yesterday overruled two motions to vacate a temporary restraining order prohibiting pari-mutuel betting at the Ak-Sar-Ben races in Omaha. One motion was filed by the Ak-Sar-Ben Exposition Company and the other by the Nebraska Racing Commission, which intervened as a separate party to the action.

Playing airtight ball behind the steady pitching of George Newham, The Times' softball team defeated their old rivals, The Colonists, 15-2 in a Westholme League game at the Willows last night. After gaining a five-run lead in the first inning the evening paper crew increased their lead as the game progressed.

In the other two games Victoria West pulled a mild surprise by handing the Y.M.C.A. a 1-1 setback, while Marigold accounted for the Colwood Wood Company, 9-3.

In a City League game the Albions Stove Works defeated Saanich "B", 16-12.

Softball games scheduled for to-night in the ladies' section of the City League are as follows:

New Method Laundry vs. Aziums, at Central Park, lower diamond.

Rainbows vs. Harmony, at Central Park, upper diamond. Umpire, A. Barnswell.

Hudson's Bay vs. Esquimalt, at Central Park, Queen's Avenue and Quadra Street.

All games will start at 6:15 o'clock.

TACOMA KITS TO PLAY HERE

Will Oppose Senior League All-stars in Double-header To-morrow

With a strong nine selected, the Senior Amateur League All-Stars will oppose the Tacoma Kittens in two games to-morrow at the Royal Athletic Park. The first fixture will commence at 2:30 o'clock and the second at 6 o'clock.

Wes Stickney, star southpaw of the Jokers, has been selected to twirl against the visitors in the first game, while Jack Bacon of the Sons will act as receiver. Brown or Belcher will be at first, while Campbell or Nex will hold down second. Colin Campbell will be at the shortstop position with either "Hap" Gandy or Emery at third. The outfield will be picked from Holman, Downs, Falconer, Green, Dunc and Essler.

The remainder of the All-Stars' pitching staff will be composed of Lloyd Cann, Steele, Green and McDonald. In the evening game only a few changes will be made in the team.

U. of C. Defeats Japanese Ball Team

Tokio, June 14.—The University of California baseball team defeated Osaka Mainichi yesterday, 7-1. The California players scored thirteen hits and made one error, while their opponents hit safely five times and played errorless ball.

PAIRINGS ANNOUNCED FOR U.S. OPEN TOURNAMENT

One Hundred and Fifty-three Golfers Will Seek Honors at New York Next Thursday; Only Eighteen Amateurs in Field; James Johnston and C. Ross Somerville Represent Canada.

New York, June 14.—The amateurs will be outnumbered more than seven to one when play in the United States open golf championship begins at the Winged Foot Club at Mamaroneck, N.Y., on June 27, but there is no disposition to count them out because of that.

The field numbers 153, only eighteen of them amateurs, but in that dozen and a half are Bobby Jones, George von Elm and Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston. That trio ought to give the rest of the field a run for its money even with all the country's greatest professionals ready for the battle.

There will be the usual foreign flavor at Winged Foot but it will be so slight as to be almost non-existent. Canada has two entrants in C. Ross Somerville, London, Ont., amateur, and James Johnston of Toronto. Cuba is sending John Wyland, a pro, and Scotland, Jack White, another pro.

THE NOTABLES
Among the notables, Johnny Farrell, the defending champion, has been paired with Willie Kidd, Minneapolis; Bobby Jones with Emmet French, Southern Pines, N.C.; Von Elm with John Bernadi, Newton Centre, Mass.; Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., with Jess S. Tuttle, Kansas City; Walter Hagen with Louis Chappetta, Hartford, Conn.; and Gene Sarazen with Jack Cummins, Cleveland, Ohio.

After the first two rounds the field is to be reduced to the low sixty scores and the final pairings will be rearranged for the final day's play.

Cricketers Will Act As Hosts To English Skipper

Local cricketers are arranging a reception to A. P. F. Chapman, captain of the English cricket team, which toured Australia during last winter, who will arrive in this city next Thursday aboard the R.M.S. Niagara. Chapman will remain in this city for one day.

FINE FIELD WILL GALLOP IN CLASSIC

$50,000 American Derby To-morrow Will See Battle Between East and West

Chicago, June 14.—With the arrival of eastern stars, a field of at least ten was assured last night for the $50,000 American Derby, to be run at Washington Park Saturday afternoon. Dr. Freeland, winner of the Peckness, and African, which finished second to Blue Larkspur in the Belmont Stakes last Saturday, were unloaded at the track yesterday.

The race promises to be a battle between the east and west, with indications that the field, although smaller, will surpass the Kentucky Derby in class. Clyde Van Dusen, winner of the Kentucky classic, rules as favorite and no doubt will go to the post in the honored position. African, the E. T. Wilson colt, which gave Blue Larkspur such a battle in the Belmont, is shaping up as second choice.

Dr. Freeland, the property of Walter J. Salmon of New York, has not raced well since winning the Peckness, but has been training in first class style. Karl Eitel, victorious in the Fairmount Derby, will carry the hopes of J. J. "Bathhouse" Coughlin, Chicago alderman, in the big race. It is not expected that his stable companion, Rough Eye, will start.

With fair weather, indications are that a crowd of 65,000 to 75,000 will witness the race. The track was drenched yesterday by a downpour, but with no more rain between now and Saturday, the racing strip will be thoroughly dry and fast.

TENNIS CLUBS ARRANGE MATCH

Hillcrests and St. Paul's Meet To-morrow in First of Inter-club Series

One of the first inter-club fixtures of the tennis season will be held to-morrow afternoon when St. Paul's will be at home to the Hillcrest Club. The two suburban clubs are very keen rivals and the result is expected to be very close. Doubles for both men and women and mixed doubles will be played. The Hillcrest Club will be represented by Herb Davey, Ralph Butler, G. H. Pullen, P. Van Freeman, J. M. Ayler, Mrs. Aylmer, Miss Inez Green, Mrs. Poyntz and Miss K. Mulcahy.

The players representing St. Paul's will be Misses H. Parkinson, H. Stevens, M. Tindall, M. Piercey, A. Ramsay, Mrs. Kensington, T. Warder, S. Hicks, A. Lockley, T. Kensington, A. Porter and D. Warder.

SCHOOL TENNIS MATCHES CLOSE

Ben Crawford Figures in Two Victories in Finals at Normal School

The finals of the Normal School tennis tournament were played on the grass courts of the school yesterday afternoon. As nearly all the students entered and the playing time was limited the students' committee decided that winning of eight games would comprise a win. After many hard battles the finals were finally reached.

In the men's doubles Harry Campbell and Ben Crawford came through in fine style, winning the final round by a score of 8-3. Their opponents were Verner Jones and Ed. Johnson.

The ladies' doubles proved to be a very spirited affair. Alice Dean and Yvonne Arthur won the most keenly contested event of the day, defeating Betty Jones and Dorothy Margison by a score of 6-7. The advantage of the odd service proved to be the deciding factor in this event.

Ben Crawford figured in his second victory of the day when, paired with Vera Beechey, he won the mixed doubles from Agnes Lang and Harry Campbell.

HORSE RACING

Chicago, June 14.—Washington Park horse racing results here yesterday follow:

First race, five furlongs—Altavara, $14, $6, $4; Sidney Grant, $3.20; $2.60; Port Gay, $2.80. Time, 1:03.

Second race, six furlongs—Victoria, $14, $6, $4; Salona, $3.60; $2.80; Gold Ridge, $3.40. Time, 1:15 4-5.

Third race, six furlongs—Badger Face, $14, $6, $4; Moderation, $4, $3; Riff Raff, $2.80. Time, 1:15 2-5.

Fourth race, six furlongs—Water Lad, $3, $4, $3; Donnyay, $3.20; $2.60; Aleader, $2.40. Time, 1:16.

Fifth race, one mile—Paul Bunyan, $4, $2.80, $2.40; Dinn, $3.60, $2.80; Chip, $3. Time, 1:41.

Sixth race, one mile—Vimont, $14, $6, $4; Color Blind, $5, $4.40; Jack Hawkey, $3. Time, 1:43 1-5.

Seventh race, mile and one-eighth—John Peel, $6, $3.60, $2.80; Semper Felix, $4, $3; Black On White, $2.60. Time, 1:59 1-5.

McGraw Tempts Fate And Sees Pirates Chalk Up Victory

Manager of New York Giants Shoves in Joe Genewich Against National League Leaders, Who Walk Off With Victory in Real Slugging Battle; "Dazzy" Vance, Starting His First Game Since May 16, Turns Back Cincinnati; Athletics and Yankees Both Win.

The twin dash of the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Athletics continued yesterday to the accompaniment of increasing consternation on the part of contenders, real and suspected. The Buccaneers turned back the New York Giants 11-7 for the second successive afternoon, gaining over each first division rival, but the Macks had to content themselves with holding fast to their eight-game lead.

The A's trimmed the Indians by 10-3, but the New York Yankees kept pace by downing Detroit 8-3.

The Pittsburgh game saw the demise of both Jess Petty and Bill Walker, who crumpled in succession in the second when each side scored five times. Melvin Ott's thirteenth home run, with two on base, settled Petty's case in the Giant half and McGraw removed Walker on suspicion in the home section with one run in and the bases filled. Hemsley greeted Carl Mays with a triple and the Pirates were back in the game after having spotted the Giants a margin of six runs.

TEMPTS FATE

John McGraw tempted fate by shoving Joe Genewich to the fore, and as usual Joe was marvelous until he gained a lead of one run. Lloyd Warner regained this advantage for the Pirates by means of a triple with two on in the sixth. Earl Sheely put on the finishing touches in the seventh by tapping out a home run with one on base after the Buccs already had scored one mark. Carmen Hill and Steve Swetonic finished in fine style for Mr. Bush.

The Chicago Cubs were unable to reach a decision in their five-inning game against the Phillies. The score was 0-0 when rain fell.

The St. Louis Cards-Boston Braves game at St. Louis was postponed altogether because of rain.

The old dazzy, Arthur C. Vance, had his first start since May 16 and the Cincinnati Reds would have been just as well pleased if he had postponed it a few more days. The Brooklyn star fanned only one but he gave Cincinnati just five hits and the Reds won by 2-1. The one run off Vance was unearned.

The Athletics carried their winning streak over into the Cleveland series with the greatest ease, extending the spurt to four games. Jimmy Zinn and John Miljus were pounded for fifteen hits, including homers by Haas and Dykes, as Eddie Rommel presented the novelty of not only finishing but starting a game. The Indians got eleven sacrifices, but seemed unable to bunch them.

COMBS HITS HOME RUN

Eddie Wells, the southpaw from Borneo, opened the Detroit series for the Yankees by issuing five passes, but at the same time limited the slugging Bengals to seven hits. The Yankees themselves rapped Earl Whitehill and Lil Stoner for fourteen blows, including a homer by Earl Combs. These home runs were enough to pull Wells through, despite a last-minute Tiger rally.

Milton Gaston added to the woes of the St. Louis Browns by turning them back at Boston in a game which saw each side get seven hits. Gaston was steadier than Rip Collins and his successor Kimsey.

Walter Johnson went through another painfult afternoon at Washington, where the Chicago White Sox rallied for three runs in the tenth to win by 11 to 8. The Senators tied an early Chicago lead in the ninth with four runs, but Ad Liska was unequal to holding the position.

COAST LEAGUE

San Francisco, June 14—Pounding in six runs in a furious third-inning rally, the Mission Reds coasted to a 7-5 victory over Seattle's Indians yesterday. Pipgras, on the mound for Seattle, was chased to the showers after he had allowed four tallies, while House, relieving him, was nicked for the rest.	R. H. E.
Seattle	5 10 1
Mission	7 11 1

Sacramento, June 14—After losing nine straight games to the San Francisco Seals, Sacramento won its first game of the season from that club here yesterday by a 4-0 score. Laurie Vinc, yielding but six hits, blanked the Seals and won over Hollis Thurston. Two runs in the first and two in the eighth turned the trick. R. H. E. Sacramento

Young Golf Wonder! —By Jimmy Thompson

Norman Wallace, with four years' golf to his credit and still that many years from being able to cast his first vote, is the golfing sensation of the Pacific Coast. He is a native of Victoria, B.C., and gives promise of bringing much fame to his home town within the next few years.

At seventeen he ranks as the premier golfer in British Columbia. He broke the hearts of all the stars, both old and young, in the recent British Columbia amateur championship, which drew players from various parts of the coast states, including Bon Stein of Seattle, U.S. western amateur champion two years ago, and "Chuck" Hunter of Tacoma, intercollegiate champion of the U.S. He came second in the qualifying round and then breezed through his rounds in match play, beating three of Vancouver's best players, including Monty Hill, their champion. Wallace reached the finals and was pitted against Hunter, who won the B.C. title two years ago, and has won many other amateur crowns. Hunter just gained the decision on the home green, but he declared that it was the toughest match he had ever engaged in.

Editor's Note:—Wallace, by his splendid performance in the recent B.C. amateur tournament here, gained sufficient prominence to be included in this Canadian sports series.

should make a good showing before the people. Lieut.-Col. Prince believes.

Formal permission for the trip now is being sought from the Canadian and United States Governments. Difficulty in this connection is not anticipated.

Golf Goat Getters

BY VERNE WICKHAM

This divot digger is just stamping down a few irregularities on the putting green. He came prepared to stamp down heel marks, divot holes or any other trouble in his way. He always keeps a stamper in his bag for such occasions. When he finishes his bit of green construction the line of putt is usually just about right, but in doing so, he violates enough rules to fill his bag.

The rule reads like this: "The club must not be laid with more than its own weight upon the ground, nor must anything be pressed down either with the club or in any OTHER WAY." Another section of the rule governing the putting green reads: "The line of putt must not be touched, except by placing the club immediately in front of the ball in the act of addressing it."

Loose impediments may be lifted. Snow, worms and so on can be scraped aside with a club and loose leaves must be lifted, but nothing can be pressed down on the green.

This applies to divot holes made by the approach shots. If a ball digs into a soft green and piles up a divot mark right in front of your ball you have to play it. You can use a lofted iron or just smack the ball through and over the irregularity, but you must not press it down with your foot or the club.

It is not permissible to touch the ground behind the ball in order to point out the line of putt.

There's nothin' like soft soap on a rough neck.

DIED

DUNDAS—The death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital on June 12, 1929, of Thomas George Dundas of Carron Hall, Strathcona, Scotland, aged 52 years, late 52nd Regiment, aged 70 years. He was residing on Vancouver Island for over twenty years. Married Mary Dundas, nee Macdonald, an invalid, living in Santa Barbara, Ronald George of Los Angeles, who married Olive Mary, second daughter of the late Robert S. Day of this city.

Funeral private, arrangements to be announced later. No flowers, by request.

MAUGER—There passed away in this city Thursday, June 13, after a short illness, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Phillip Thomas Mauger. The late Mr. Mauger was born in Newfoundland. For the past six years he has been living in this city with his parents at the family residence, 2218 Blanshard Street. He is survived by his father and mother and an adopted sister, Miss Florence May Han.

Funeral service will be held Saturday afternoon, June 15, the casket leaving the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, proceeding to St. John's Church, where Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick will officiate at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

HODGINS—In this city, on Tuesday, June 11, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Ann Louise Hodgins, aged fifty-four years, wife of T. J. Hodgins of 745 Yates Street. The late Mrs. Hodgins was born in the B.A. and had resided here for sixteen months, coming from Lethbridge, Alberta.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from McCall Bros. Funeral Home. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

WATSON—In this city, on Wednesday, June 12, at St. Joseph's Hospital, William Davenport Watson, aged seventy years, of 1118 Pandora Avenue.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from McCall Bros. Funeral Home. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

IN MEMORIAM

LANDY—In loving memory of Ger. T. E. Landy, who died June 13, 1918, at Pioneer 7, Landy, who was killed in action June 14, 1918.

Deep in our hearts there's a picture of the loved one gone to rest. In memory's frame we will keep them. Because they were two of the best. No more will the smile of their dear faces brighten.

The sad, lonely hearts of those left behind. For no one who knew them could ever forget them.

Their ways were so jolly, so faithful and kind.

—Inserted by a loving Wife and Mother and a loving Son and Brother.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. G. H. Hardy and family wish to thank their many kind friends for their kindness to them in their recent sad bereavement in the loss of a loving husband and father, also for beautiful floral tributes. They especially wish to thank the employees of the B.C.R. Ry. (of which the late Mr. Hardy was a member) and the Sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Their ways were so jolly, so faithful and kind.

A "Fighting Pacifist" Comes Back

Ramsay MacDonald, Who Was driven From Public Life by Anti-war Stand and Later Named Britain's Premier, Only to be Overthrown, Returns to Helm of Empire

London, June 14.—Once more the wheel of fortune has turned and Ramsay MacDonald, one of the greatest political constant in history, is again head of the Government of the far-flung British Empire with its 463,000,000 souls.

This "fighting pacifist" who was hooted, jeered and driven from public life because of his anti-war attitude a decade ago, who returned to power in 1924 as Britain's first Labor Premier and who was overthrown by a Bolshevik "scare" a year later, is again at the helm of the Empire and apparently stronger than ever.

ROSE FROM HUMBLE BIRTH
The life story of MacDonald, who becomes Prime Minister of Britain for the second time as the result of the Labor party's victory in the recent elections, is a testimonial to England's brand of democracy.

MacDonald was born the son of a poverty-stricken farm laborer in the obscure Scottish fishing village of Lossiemouth, sixty-two years ago.

He worked on the farm as a boy, got a meagre schooling in his spare moments, educated himself by means of books, went to London in his teens and fought his way up in politics from the bottom rung of the ladder—and emerged, eventually, as first man in British Empire, distinguished, among other ways, by the fact that he was the poorest man ever to hold the office of Prime Minister.

A "FIGHTING PACIFIST"
MacDonald's story is more than an epic of British democracy, however. It is a story of a fighter—a fighter who, oddly enough, once cried out, "I come from a people as ready to use their dirks as their tongues," and who spoke of his ventures into the political field as "going forth to smite and be smitten."

Although a fighter, he is not of the fire-eating type. He is eloquent and occasionally impassioned, but he nevertheless won the title of "Gentleman Mac" from other men in Parliament.

It was in 1887 that MacDonald was born, one of a number of children who toddled about a barren Scotch village where hardly one family had any resources to tide it over a few weeks' unemployment. He followed the plough before he was in his teens, got his schooling from the village dominie, read every book he could lay his hands on, and at an early age decided that he must become educated and go to London, where opportunities were greater.

To London he went at nineteen, to land on the high stool of an invoice clerk in a commercial house. His fellow clerks regarded him as a queer fish—shy, unobscure. He spent his nights at night school and was seldom seen by his associates outside of the office.

TURN TO POLITICS
It did not take MacDonald long to discover that he was not cut out for a clerk's life, so he cast himself adrift from his job and became a free-lance newspaper and magazine contributor. Then politics drew his attention.

Fortunately, he came to the notice of Tom Lough, a Liberal member of Parliament, and was appointed his secretary. He soon grew convinced that only socialism afforded any hope for the British laboring man—for the farmers of his desolate Scotch village, the clerks of the monotonous London office.

Thus MacDonald switched to the Labor party. It was then a mere infant, divided in its infancy into two opposing camps, one made up of labor union organizers and workers and the other of theorists who could talk nothing but the great political revolution that they intended to spring upon an unsuspecting empire just as soon as they were able.

MacDonald sought to harmonize these two groups, and he was amazingly successful. In 1900 he was made secretary of the Labor party, and from that moment on he began to be a force to be reckoned with in British politics. In 1905 he was elected to Parliament from the City of Leicester.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES OF NEW PREMIER

Here are intimate glimpses of Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's new Premier who has just returned to power after one of the most remarkable careers in England's history. He is shown enjoying his favorite game—golf, in action as a speaker and at his desk at 10 Downing Street, the office of the Prime Minister.

WIFE DIED IN 1911
His work with the Labor party had brought him in contact with Miss Margaret Ethel Gladstone, kinswoman of the famous Prime Minister, a highly intellectual young woman who was deeply interested in socialism; and after a brief courtship the two were married.

But it wasn't long. MacDonald's death in 1911 there was perhaps the happiest union in all of England. MacDonald has repeatedly emphasized his debt to his wife.

By the time the World War broke out Ramsay MacDonald was a powerful figure. His conduct during the war, however, seemed at the time like nothing on earth but political suicide.

While England was swept by a wave of "my country, right or wrong," MacDonald steadfastly opposed the war and demanded a peace by negotiation. He lost his seat in Parliament. He was howled down in public meetings, was assailed by the press, ruined his health and finally, after the armistice, quit England and went on an extended tour of the Empire to recuperate. Apparently his political career was ended.

BECOMES PRIME MINISTER
In 1922 he was re-elected to Parliament. Shortly thereafter he was made leader of the Labor party, which by this time had become the second party in the House of Commons. And in 1924, when the Conservative Government fell, he became Prime Minister.

His first term as Prime Minister was not a long one; nor was he able to put into effect many of his social and economic doctrines. Heading a minority party, he could keep his government in power only with Liberal support, and his programme thus had to meet with the approval of Asquith and Lloyd George, Liberal leaders.

His government fell in a year—fell when the Liberals tired of the role they were playing—and Stanley Baldwin, Conservative, became Premier. A general election followed. The Labor party was hit a body blow by a great Conservative landslide. MacDonald was a scare occasioned by the discovery of a letter, which may or may not have been forged, in which dark plots against the British Empire were thought to have been revealed. The Conservatives swept the country, and for four years Baldwin was in power.

MacDonald, through these years, was leader of the opposition. He kept busy. He purged the Labor party of its Communist elements, formulated a programme that could be presented without arousing the staid Britons to hysteria and bided his time. The Baldwin government's handling of the general strike gained Labor many recruits; so, too, did its handling of the following directors retire and are eligible for re-election: Mrs. C. W. Rhodes, Messrs. Chas. Williams, D. James Ansa and J. D. Wright.

All donors of money of $100.00 and upwards, and annual subscribers of $5.00 and upwards are eligible to vote for the election of directors.

D. D. MUIR, Secretary.

MACDONALD'S LIFE BRIEFLY TOLD

BORN the son of a poverty-stricken farm laborer in obscure Scottish fishing village in 1867.

Largely educated self by reading and self-attended night school while working as clerk in London. Entered politics as secretary to a Liberal member of Parliament, but later turned to Labor party.

Elected to Parliament in 1906. Driven from politics by anti-war attitude in World War.

Re-elected to Parliament in 1922, became leader of Labor party and was named Premier when Conservative government fell in 1924.

Swept from power in Labor downfall of 1925, resulting from Bolshevik "scare."

Purged Labor party of its Communist elements and bided his time. Became Premier again in 1929 after Labor party had polled greatest vote in its history.

The Labor leader's personal tastes are almost Spartan. He is a teetotaler, seldom smokes, and eats only the plainest of food. Golf is one of his favorite diversions, and he spends most of his evenings in his library.

His oldest daughter, Isabel, who is twenty-five, pretty, with wavy brown hair, is the mistress of his household. There are two other daughters, Joan, nineteen, and Sheila, seventeen, the "baby" of the family. Of the two sons, the eldest, Alister, is an architect, while the other, Malcolm, won election to Parliament from Basildon in the recent election. Malcolm, it goes without saying, ran as a Laborite.

AUTHORS GUESTS OF MRS. CAMERON

Meeting Held Last Night By Victoria Branch of Canadian Authors' Association

Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Roseboro, Moss street, was hostess last evening to members of the Victoria and Islands Branch Canadian Authors' Association who held their June meeting at her charming home.

Assisted in receiving her guests by Alfred Carmichael, president of the Authors' Association, and Donald Fraser, past president, and before an interesting programme arranged by Mrs. Mary H. Rathorn, aided by Mr. Fraser, was presented. Dr. J. K. Unsworth, the first speaker, dealt with the remarkable parable novel by Kipling, whose phenomenal writings, both from an ethical standpoint and from a question of volume, stand unique in the annals of literature. Later in the evening, by request, Dr. Unsworth read an extract from Kipling's autobiographical novel, "Across the Death Line," which under its translated title, appears as "Before the Dawn."

Mrs. Wilfrid Ord of the Victoria School of Expression delighted her hearers with a brief history of elocutionary art in its development and various phases through the years. Many amusing illustrations were given by Mrs. Ord, who also recited with much charm "St. Ives' Poor."

Mr. Carmichael gave a delightful burlesque, "The Wild Magd by the West" as a last echo of the older forms of elocution.

Mr. Fraser announced that the June number of the public school magazine, which he edits, will be entirely made up of contributions from the Victoria and Islands Branch Canadian Authors' Association. Mr. Fraser also read two amusing poems of his which have appeared lately in an eastern magazine. A pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the singing by Mrs. W. H. Wilson of "I Promise You," a roly to de Koven's "O Promise Me."

This song was received with much applause, the words being by Donald Fraser and the delightful musical setting by Mr. Gurney, organist of the First United Church. Mrs. Wilton also sang several other solos, later in the evening, which were greatly appreciated.

Mr. Carmichael announced the dele-

Novikoff Will Present Ballet

Lovers of the dance will have an unusual opportunity of seeing European classical ballet, when Boris Novikoff, late ballet master at the Russian Imperial Court, and his Victoria famous ballet troupe present a programme of classical ballet on Monday, June 27, in the Playhouse Theatre.

The beautiful classical ballet, "Coppelia," in two acts, with music by Delibes; the waltz ballet to the theme of the lovely "Blue Danube" of F. Strauss; "Le Triomphe de Toreador," Spanish ballet in one act, music by E. Waldfeldt; and the new Indian ballet, "Wahoo," in one act, to the music of Moho-nah, interpret the spirit of the dance in three continents, making up a ballet fest entirely new to Victoria.

The premier dancer will be Boris Novikoff and the soloists of the ballet are, Daisy Borrowman, Mona and Doris Jewell, Gertrude Partridge and Margaret Fager. The corps de ballet will be composed of the following dancers, Valeria Ellwood, Ruth Balcom, Eileen Chislett, Loria Mackay, Mary Fager, Betty Clark, Patricia Carr-Hon, Nelly Sims, Patricia and Sheila Meyers, Patricia Callagher and others.

OBITUARY

Funeral service for the late Thomas Mauger will be held Saturday afternoon, June 15, the cortege leaving the S. J. Curry and Son Funeral Home, proceeding to St. John's Church, where Rev. F. A. Chadwick will officiate at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mrs. Florence Mearns, aged sixty-five years, passed away this morning at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Mrs. Mearns was born in London, England, and came to this city twenty years ago. She is survived by her husband, Henry Mearns, at the family residence, 101 Simms Street, Saanich, one daughter, Mrs. Harry Bowman, Los Angeles, Cal., and one brother, in England. The remains are resting at the S. J. Curry and Son Funeral Home. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

The funeral of the late George Marsden will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel. The remains will be laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ann Louise Hodgins will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from McCall Brothers' Funeral Home. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

The funeral of the late William D. Watson will take place on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from McCall Brothers' Funeral Home. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Three lots were last night sold for $400, to three purchasers by the Saanich Council.

Applications of E. B. Finn and W. S. Norrington for membership were approved by the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to-day.

Charles Anderson was fined $5 in Saanich Police Court yesterday for failing to produce his driver's license upon request of a police officer.

For failing to report a case of scarlet fever in his family to the health officer, H. J. Bell was fined $20 in Saanich Police Court yesterday afternoon.

The Saanich Council last night deferred action on a request from the Saanich School Board for $6,000 for preparation of plans for a high school building.

The Ward Two Saanich Cottage Gardeners' Society was voted $50 by the Saanich Council last night. The grant is in aid of the prize list of the annual show.

George McGregor, chairman of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, was last night reappointed by the Saanich Council as its representative on the directorate of the hospital.

The lack of proper license plates on his automobile on June 1 resulted in Leonard Avendell paying a $10 fine in Saanich Police Court yesterday afternoon. He pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Elizabeth Coudrige, the well-known writer, was in Victoria for a few hours yesterday from Washington, D.C. She left by the afternoon boat with a party of friends for Seattle, en route to California.

Night driving of automobiles without both headlights burning was the subject of a warning from the bench in Saanich Police Court yesterday when the court found guilty to a charge of this nature. He was released after being reprimanded by the Magistrate.

The Esquimalt team for their Centennial Cup football match to-morrow afternoon at Beacon Hill against the Victoria Wests will be as follows: Spinner, Sweeney, Mesher, Homer, Robinson, Carmichael, Stewart, J. Watt, Pepin, Wright and Wagland.

The usual monthly meeting of the Tubercular Veterans' Section of the Canadian Legion will be held at the clubrooms, 531 Bastion Street, at 8 p.m. Tuesday night. It is requested that all members attend as there are matters of personal interest which will be brought up.

No action will be taken at this time by the Saanich Council to attain primary classification of East and West Saanich Roads. A resolution from the Saanich Board of Trade urging efforts to attain primary classification was filed in view of the recently attained concession of secondary classification for the East Road.

Saturday, June 29, will be a municipal holiday in Saanich. At the request of the Saanich Municipal Employees' Association the council last night granted the half day holiday, with pay, to enable all outside employees to attend the annual picnic of the city staff. The cost to Saanich was stated to be about $30.

On a charge arising out of a collision between two automobiles at the intersection of Boleyn Road and Douglas Street, June 8, K. Jennings was arraigned in Saanich Police Court for driving to the common danger. He pleaded not guilty through C. E. Courtney. After hearing the evidence Magistrate George Jay reserved judgment until next Thursday. Fred Sydel was the driver of the other car in the accident.

A concert will be given at the Auditorium, Sidney, on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock when Frank Merryfield, the Cornish Wizard, will present his magical show, assisted by his well-known daughters, Violet and Frances. With him also will be Madame Gas-kill's dancers and Professor W. Farm-er's Punch and Judy show. Fifty per cent of the proceeds from this concert are to be given to the Memorial Hospital. A good and good attendance is looked for.

Entries for the home gardening competition sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society are to be in the hands of the secretary, F. E. Boulter, 538 Obed Avenue, on later than June 15. Judging will be completed by July 12. Prizes are to be awarded in several classes, for arrangement, quality of crops, selection of varieties, industry, neatness and freedom from weeds and insect pests. Cash prizes from $4 to $12 and challenge cups will be offered the winners in the respective classes. An entrance fee of fifty cents is being charged.

ARCHITECTS PAY VISIT TO CITY

John H. Archibald of Montreal, and J. Schofield, C.N.R., Spent Forenoon Here

TWO APPEALS ON SUPREME COURT CASES

Mainland Principals Concerned in Actions Before Appeal Court To-day

John M. Douglas and Herbert B. Gray are appealing a judgment given in favor of R. L. Cliff by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in a Supreme Court action between mainland principals, in hearing opening before the Court of Appeal to-day.

Mr. Justice McDonald found for the plaintiff-respondent on an action for recovery of $2,764 paid in a surety agreement. From this defendants are appealing. J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., appears for the appellants and Charles W. St. John for the respondent.

In Hornby vs. Paterson, the appeal to follow, Kathleen Paterson is appealing from a decision of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, who found for the plaintiffs, Leyland F. Hornby and Doris Hornby in a claim for damages for auto collision. A judgment for $1,781 was given by the Supreme Court in favor of the plaintiffs, and from this appeal is taken by the defendant. Alfred Bull will appear for the defendant-appellants and H. J. Sullivan for the respondents.

At the close of the hearing of Tedlock versus McKelvie yesterday afternoon, judgment was given varying the finding of the lower courts as to the degree of responsibility for a motor collision, the subject of the dispute. The lower courts had found for the plaintiff in the sum of $2,500 and costs.

The Appeal Court held that each of the parties had contributed to the accident, and assessed two-thirds of the damages against the defendant-appellant, and one-third against the respondent.

Chief Justice Macdonald and Mr. Justice Gailher would have held the parties responsible to an equal degree. Alfred Bull, appeared for the appellant, and J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., for the respondent.

HON. H. MARLER HERE AUGUST 7

Under arrangements outlined at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day, Hon. Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to Japan, will address a joint dinner meeting of the Canadian Club and the Chamber of Commerce on August 7.

GRILSE RULES CHANGE ASKED

Directors of Commerce Chamber Discuss Report of Committee

Grilse fishing in Saanich Arm and the new Federal regulations governing the size of catches in this area were points about which argument centered at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day.

H. D. Patterson, chairman of a committee on the matter, submitted for approval a long and detailed letter, outlining practically all angles of the case, to be forwarded to W. A. Ford, Deputy Minister of Fisheries at Ottawa. J. L. Beckwith took exception to a clause in the letter which compared sport fishing with commercial fishing, suggesting that the case of the board should be strengthened by the elimination of any reference to commercial fishing.

Mr. Patterson maintained that the committee was firm on this point and intimated he would resign as chairman of the committee if the latter were amended.

Chief Justice Macdonald and Mr. Justice Gailher regarded the letter as rather long and couched in terms which might be taken as antagonistic, defeating their own ends, but Mr. Patterson claimed the only way in which the point could be gained was by going after it in a strong manner.

SIZE OF GRILSE

Discussion revolved around the point of the size of salmon which could be caught and suggestions were made that the new regulations, limiting catches to five per person and ten per boat, should except salmon under two and one half pounds, otherwise known as grilse.

After considerable argument around the question, Mr. Patterson submitted the letter as a report from committee. The report was referred back to the committee for further consideration.

YOUNG TEACHERS END STUDIES AT NORMAL SCHOOL

Students Receive Athletic Prizes at Closing Exercises This Morning

Encouraging Addresses Given By Instructors to Pupils Leaving School

Presentation of crests and prizes to the school's athletes, a valedictory address by Arthur Patterson one of the students and short replies by members of the staff, featured the closing exercises of the Normal School this morning.

Approximately 150 students gathered for the last time in the school auditorium to hear parting advice from their teachers and bid them farewell before starting on their careers. The exercises were presided over at the gathering, but will be made public by the Department of Education shortly.

BONDS OF FRIENDSHIP

Stressing the strong bonds of friendship which had cemented the student body and faculty together, Mr. Patterson in his speech paid whole-hearted tribute to the friendly spirit of the school. He spoke of his first impressions of the institution. These had been changed into the most kindly feelings, he asserted, paying particular tribute to the different student executives which had tended to create a fine school spirit. The work of the literary, athletic and social organizations was dealt with and commended by the speaker.

INSTRUCTORS SPEAK

Miss Isabel Courcier, head of the physical department, then spoke of the year's activities, which she had enjoyed so much. She was followed by Miss L. B. Isbister, who also expressed her appreciation for the co-operation she had been given during the term.

In turn Miss G. Riddell, H. Dunne, B. S. Freeman and C. B. Wood paid tribute to the student body and offered words of advice to the coming teachers.

V. L. Denton presented crests to the different athletes of the school, commending them on their attainments and wishing them every success in their life's work.

WIN TENNIS PRIZES

The Misses Arthur and Dean were awarded the ladies' doubles tennis prize while Miss Vera Beachy and Ben Crawford received the trophy for the mixed doubles event. Harry Campbell and Ben Crawford were given the men's doubles cup.

The athletic shield was jointly won by the girls of Class C and the boys of Class D 2.

Following the presentations, Mr. Denton gave the gathering an inspiring address on the work which they were about to commence. He illustrated to them the responsibility which would be theirs in guiding the thoughts of their young pupils. Nor would they be encouraged by immediate success. The true results of their efforts would be evident when the children they had taught were men and women of the nation guiding its destinies, he said.

RECEIVED CRESTS

During the ceremonies, G. D'Arcy, president of the athletic association, presented Miss Courcier and Mr. Denton with the athletic crests in token of the student body's appreciation of their work in forwarding that particular phase of the school's activities.

Concluding the programme D. L. MacLaurin, principal of the school, delivered an encouraging and philosophical address to the gathering. It was not easy to sever lightly the associations which had been built up during the year, he said. He hoped his pupils had assimilated more than technical knowledge of teaching during their year there. It was his hope that during their tenure at the school they had learned a little more of the art of living, which he characterized as the greatest of arts.

PERSONALITY DEVELOPMENT

He stressed the value of the development of personality which had been the aim of the school.

"For," he said, "it is what you are yourself that will count in the great field of responsibility which you are entering upon."

He hoped that the students would enjoy every success in their life work and assured them of his best and kindest wishes at all times.

Girl Hurt When Bicycle Crashes With Automobile

Dorothy Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevens, 1817 Cook Street, sustained a bad gash in her head when she was struck by a bicycle which crashed from her bicycle in collision with an automobile at the intersection of Burrard and Blanshard Streets this morning. Although her injuries are not regarded as serious she will be confined to bed for a day or two.

According to a report made to the police, Dorothy was riding a bicycle south on Blanshard and a car driven by W. Armstrong, 960 Heywood Avenue, was proceeding west on Humboldt at the time of the accident. The two collided at the corner where visibility is poor. The girl was taken to her home before police arrived on the scene.

West Kootenay Power Company Seeks Water License at Adams River

The West Kootenay Power and Light Company will take advantage of the act of the last Legislature in granting them a wider radius for distribution of power, it is indicated by an announcement in this week's issue of the British Columbia Gazette.

The company has applied for a license to use water from Adams River which drains into Shuswap Lake and to construct a storage dam. This would enable the company to serve north of their present radius and to develop from 25,000 to 30,000 horsepower to tie the power lines from Adams River to their main lines which run from Bonnington.

Oak Bay Council Considers Applications to Inaugurate Service

Consideration of several applications for the inauguration of a bus service to the Oak Bay district is now being given by the Oak Bay Council. A deputation from the Royal Blue Line Tours Company waited upon the council last night and presented the latest application, after which it was decided to hold in abeyance any decision on the matter.

Representatives of the Blue Line intimated the company could put on a service starting September 15, using sightseeing cars with well sprung seats and low windows. These cars would be replaced during the spring by ordinary buses.

The council endorsed a resolution seeking power from the Government for municipalities to prohibit billboards in public places. This motion will be submitted by the Saanich Council at the coming convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

A cheque for $64.28, representing Oak Bay's proportion of the cash surplus of the Victoria Day celebration was received from the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

BACK MOVE FOR DUTY ON YARNS

Chamber Directors Approve Report of Industrial Group on Tax

The move of the industrial group of the Chamber of Commerce to secure the reimposition of a 12 1/2 per cent duty on worsted yarns to protect the local industry received the backing of the board of directors to-day when the committee's report on the matter was accepted. Re-election of James Parritt as chairman of the group was also reported.

Arrangements for an excursion to Port San Juan on July 31, backed by the Chamber, were reported by C. L. Harrison, chairman of a committee working on the project. The Princess Patricia would be used for the trip, leaving Victoria at 9:30 a.m. and Port San Juan at 5 p.m. on the return.

Resolutions for submission at the annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island in Victoria July 11 and appointment of delegates to the Pacific were asked in a letter from the secretary of the organization.

An invitation to members to attend a meeting of the engineering bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade at Bamberston June 22 was read.

J. L. Beckwith and H. D. Patterson reported on the meeting of the fishing interests and trade boards at Nanaimo Thursday.

Palatial Yacht Now in Harbor

The palatially-appointed steam yacht Valero II, owned by Capt. G. A. Hancock of Los Angeles, Cal., is moored in the Inner Harbor off the Causeway to-day.

Capt. Hancock formerly owned the freighter-yacht Oaxaca, now moored in Esquimalt Harbor. He was aboard the Oaxaca last summer when she was wrecked in Wrangell Narrows, Alaska.

The ship was salvaged, brought here for repairs and subsequently sold to Capt. J. Hobbs of Vancouver.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, June 14.—Wheat: Market was nervous to-day at times, and while there was only a small trade passing, prices were mostly sharply higher. Opening prices were about 10 higher with cables a little firmer than due, and some moderate buying by exporters and seaboard houses. This bulge was all lost after the first hour of trading, but good local buying developed on the continued dry weather in Canada and prices again advanced to new highs for the day, this bulge being helped by the news that both the House and Senate at Washington had passed the farm bill without the debarment clause.

However, the bulge brought out considerable wheat by the way of profit taking, the pool were also selling and Chicago did not show the strength that was expected, all of which made the full returns difficult to hold. Export sales overnight estimated around 800,000 bushels mostly worked by the pool.

There was a good demand from shippers early for cash wheat and spreads were unchanged to half higher. There were a few light scattered showers in the west, but they were too light to do any good.

The bull possibilities, outside of the farm relief programme lie in possible deterioration in Canada, and bad weather in Argentina, Australia and Russia, rains being needed. If Western Canada does not get rains over the week-end look for higher markets in a few days.

Coarse Grains: These markets were rather quiet to-day, although a little export business was reported in barley and rye. Markets were somewhat firmer most of the day, but offerings appeared to be fairly liberal, causing the market to ease off later.

Flax: Further liquidation in July was going on against some purchases of October, no feature.

"LOVE IS OF THE VALLEY"

By DAVID LYALL

"You would bear it less if I stood back in the slacker's shoes, my darling. I can see the swift, scorn gathering in your eyes at the thought."

"Oh, that could never happen, but—but how shall I bear it? You have been away so long."

He turned her face to his and looked into the depths of her eyes from which all the pride and the aloofness had departed, leaving them clear mirrors of a woman's loving heart.

"You will marry me before I go back?"

"Shall I?" Her voice dropped to a whisper almost awe-struck in its intensity.

Yes, and so Linnorle will come back where it belongs. My mother made a will, before she married, and the place is mine absolutely. When we get through with the big fight, you and I will make good as the one another's brought us together first. All we shall keep for ourselves will be the old house, a few acres of the park, and this strip of the wood for ever halloing now."

"Isn't it wonderful?" she said, hiding her face on his shoulder. "And the most wonderful thing of all is that there is no Beatrice Heron any more."

"What do I see, then?" he asked whimsically. "She is thinner and more tired than she ought to be, but still, thank God, a very substantial woman."

"Something in her has died. It is the true perspective that is standing out. Life is different, shorn of its trappings, the things I used to think were the indispensable and which I know now are the dust beneath my feet."

"There is only one thing that matters, and that is love," he said. "For lack of it men are to one another's throats, and the world is perishing today. We will make an end of war, Beatrice. We will dedicate our lives to that."

She was with him wholly and her whole being thrilled at the fineness of her lover, his brave manliness, his indomitable courage that had taken him forth on many a forlorn hope, and his unflinching attitude towards the great verities. How mean and paltry seemed her poor conception of life; her struggle to uphold the shreds of dignity she imagined the name she bore! She had come down into the valley, indeed, and not only found love there, but all the precious things of life, beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness. She rose unsteadily, her eyes swimming in tears.

"I want to go back," she said, pointing across the park in the direction whence they had come. "I want to tell them over yonder. No, please don't come. I need to be alone."

"Tell me first that you love me," he asked jealously. "I have been very patient. I never have asked."

She hesitated a moment, then putting her hands on his shoulders gave herself royally.

"I love you. I have no life apart from you. I will marry you when and where you like, and be true to you to the day of my death, loving and serving you so long as we are permitted to be together."

She ran from him with that, and he made no attempt to follow her. Too well he had proven that there are times when the prime need of the soul is solitude, that for its health it has to withdraw itself from commerce with others. It is because so many destroy this vast longing that there is so much noise in the world.

He turned towards the house, pondering on the glory of life, and that whether it should be long or short for him, he would have the prize of its sweetest cup. He was happy with a happiness which is rare. His love affair had been short and strange, the woman who had just pledged herself so solemnly to him, he had only met three times. How comes it that in some rare cases such complete assurance is possible, that soul answers to soul without question or doubt. Who can answer these things? They are part of the riddle of the universe. The warp and woof of life are woven of threads both gold and grey, sometimes they are black.

As Brodie crossed to the drive, he encountered a telegraph boy on a red post office bicycle, and stretched out his hand for the message. It was addressed to Beatrice, and when he opened it discovered a war office message informing her that her brother, Walter Caverhill Heron, had been killed at La Basse three days before.

CHAPTER XXXI

In a London hotel, for a whole week, Beatrice had awaited the arrival of a boat from the east. While her daily visit to the office of the steamship company elicited very little information beyond the fact that the ship was on the way, the evident assurance and complete lack of anxiety displayed there did not entirely remove her apprehension. For two long years she had waited for this day, and hope deferred maketh the heart sick.

Even the busy heart, and in all that time Beatrice had had her hands full at Linnorle, full with the waste and wreckage of war.

But now the hospital had been closed for a month, Linnorle was swept and garnished for its master, and she was waiting in the same hotel in Dover Street which had housed them when they came on their wedding journey, and to say good-bye.

She lived over and over again these preceding hours and days in a singular isolation which was in no sense loneliness. There were people in London she could have called to her assistance, several hospitable doors would have opened wide to receive her, but she did not feel the need of them. In her heart dwelt one image only, which colored all her thoughts, accompanying her in waking and sleeping hours, warp and woof alike of her conscious life and of her dreams.

When a woman like Beatrice Heron, who has not scattered the largesse of her nature abroad, concentrates on one affection or object, then it is what may be called one of the great loves, which are rare in this world, and would require a separate chronicle.

After two months' leave only, John Brodie had returned to his regiment and duty in the east, where he had been swallowed as a forlorn hope, and parcels reaching him only in strange spasms somewhat resembling a flood and a long drought. To many exiles the drought was continuous. On these far-flung battle lines, where there were no short leaves, where mailcarriers failed and marauders abounded, our soldiers suffered more than we dare to think from drought, both of body and of soul.

Beatrice had received a good many letters from him, which she wore in a wallet near her heart, deeming them more precious than jewels.

Who can estimate the height and the depth of love?

Many waters cannot quench it, nor yet the floods drown it.

"Love is life's end, an end, but never ending.

Love is life's wealth, ne'er spent, but ever spending.

Love life's reward, rewarded in rewarding."

The condition men call peace had been in existence for nearly eight months, and for the first time Beatrice beheld the miracle of spring in London.

There is none quite like it in the world.

It comes so rapidly, with such unimagined beauty that through sharp contrast with its teeming life, it strikes all the senses with passionate and common appeal. During these May days of incomparable loveliness Beatrice tasted of the lure of London, lived in her parks and squares and streets, studying the faces of the people, trying to arrive at some just estimate of her throbbing heart.

To be continued.

Thirty-five states have passed laws stating the physical education must be part of the public school curriculum.

Smart Doings of Animals

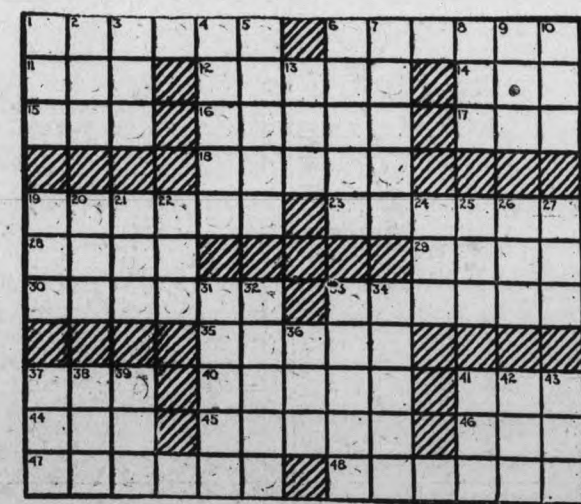

Dog Cleverly Acts Deception

Romanes, the naturalist, made an experiment to see what his terrier would do if ridiculed.

The dog was fond of catching flies upon the window panes. Watching him, Romanes purposely laughed loudly every time he failed.

The dog seemed much annoyed, particularly as his efforts to catch a fly continued to be fruitless. Under the spur of his master's merriment, he finally pretended that he had caught a victim. He went through all the appropriate movements with his lip and tongue and afterward rubbed his neck

John McCormack Had to Stand on Table to Sing
John McCormack always loved to sing. Ever since he was a tiny boy, singing was just as natural as breathing. He first sang in public when he was nine years old.

He was attending a church school, and one day the bishop came, with several other leading men of the church, to visit. One of the teachers, who had heard John sing, said to him, "John, we want you to sing for the bishop."

John had never sung for anyone before. The teacher lifted him up on to a table, where everyone could see him. The lad's throat felt dry, and he didn't think he could make a sound. Then he remembered an old song his mother liked to hear him sing about the house. He sang it for them, straight through, without faltering.

Not only the bishop, but all his schoolmates, liked it so well they clapped, and after that John was often asked to sing in public.

John McCormack, born in Ireland, June 14, 1884, is one of the best-loved singers of to-day.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly's Snowballs

(Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggly had made friends with an old sailor dog who kept a penny candy store near the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow. Uncle Wiggly had bought some hokey pokeys, or ice cream sandwiches, which is the new name for them, and in this way he and the old sailor dog got to know each other quite well.

Every day, for nearly a week, Mr. Longears would hop to the sweet shop and buy himself a hokey pokey. After while the old sailor dog said:

"How would you like a snowball?"

"Fine," laughed Uncle Wiggly, seeing how hot the sun was shining. "And perhaps you might also find me an icicle!"

"Oh, I'm not joking!" growled the jolly, old dog. "I know it is almost the Fourth of July and the weather is hot. I didn't mean to go out on the street and gather up snow enough to make a ball. I can make you a snowball right here in my store."

"You can?" cried Uncle Wiggly in surprise.

"Surely!" chuckled the dog. "Look here!"

"It's just scrumptious!" said the rabbit.

He opened a large box and, inside, Uncle Wiggly saw a cake of ice, fresh from the cave of Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear gentleman. The old sea dog took in his paw a sort of scraper that was round in shape like a baseball. Rubbing this scraper up and down on the cake of ice made it shave off a lot of fine, frozen crystals that were held in the round part, shaped like a ball.

"There you are!" growled the old sea dog as he turned the jigger upside down, tapped it on his paw and there was a beautiful snowball made of scraped, fine shavings of ice.

"Wonderful!" cried Uncle Wiggly.

"Hah! Hah! Wait!" barked the jolly, old sweet shop dog. "You haven't seen it all yet!"

With that he took a bottle of strawberry juice, as sweet as honey and as red as a fire chief's automobile and sprinkled it all over the snowball. Then he handed it to Uncle Wiggly and said:

"Eat it!" Which the rabbit gentleman did.

"How do you like the snowball?" asked the sweet shopkeeper.

"It's just scrumptious!" said the rabbit. "Please make me another."

The jolly dog scraped some more ice until it looked like snow and became a round ball. Then he put some orange syrup juice on it and Mr. Longears said it was even better than the strawberry ball.

"If I had somebody to help me," went on the dog as he put the cover back on the box that held the cake of ice, "I could make a lot of money."

"By selling ice cream cones and hokey pokey sandwiches and sweet snowballs over at the ball game to-day," explained the dog. "You see the boys from the Lady Mouse Teachers' Hollow Stump School are going to play ball this afternoon. I generally take my little cart and go over to the lot and between innings the animal boy ball players buy ice cream cones and hokey pokey ice cream sandwiches from me. Now I could make more money if I could take two carts, one with a cake of ice on it to make snowballs that I could sell. But one cart is all I can manage."

"Well, why not let me take one cart and sell snowballs?" asked Uncle Wiggly quickly. "I think I could scrape the cake of ice into that jigger you have and squirt on the sweet strawberry syrup."

"Of course you could do it," barked the dog. "Then we'll both make money selling sweets to the ball players."

That afternoon both the dog and Uncle Wiggly took their wagons to the ball field and while the dog made ice cream cones and sandwiches, the rabbit scraped ice and made colored snowballs. And he sold so many to the warm and hungry animal boys playing ball that soon the money box was almost full of pennies and nickels.

Once, when Uncle Wiggly was scraping ice and making an orange snowball for Jackie Bow Bow, the puppy dog, Sammie Littlelitt was at the bat and knocked a ball very, very far, close over by the ice cream and snowball wagon. Floppy Twisttail, the fat pig boy ran after the baseball just as Uncle Wiggly was handing Jackie the orange snowball. And Floppy was so excited that he grabbed the snowball from Uncle Wiggly's paw, thinking it was the baseball, and tried to throw it to put Sammie out. And how surprised the pig boy was when he found he had a snowball, flavored with orange syrup, in his paw.

"Oh, gosh!" he grunted and then he began to eat the sweet snowball and Uncle Wiggly had to make Jackie another and then all the other baseball boys wanted some, so there was no more game that day. Mr. Longears and the old sea dog made a lot of money selling sweets.

And if the letter carrier will put a postage stamp on the roller skate so it can get a ride in the mail plane, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly's new shoes.

To-morrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, JUNE 15, 1929

Astrologers read this as rather an unlucky day in planetary direction and recommend rest and recreation.

It is not an auspicious day for any form of literary work or for discussing educational plans for the future.

Under this rule of the stars the mind may be inclined to vague thinking and lack of concentration.

There is rather a warning sign for making new acquaintances of opposite sex. Those who begin vacations should beware of flirtation.

Both the air and water seem to be more dangerous for travel than they are under other configurations. It is well to use motors and railways for week-end trips. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly's new shoes.

The evening should be lucky for persons who are at ease regarding their bank accounts and seems to promise pleasant associations.

All through the summer an added desire for amusement will be apparent. It is prophesied, and for this reason theatres will prosper even through warm weather.

Return to popularity for books of every sort, which has been apparent for some time now will be strongly emphasized, the teens declare. Writers and publishers will benefit.

Ella Cinders—Is Black Right?

Don't desert your public, Ella, for the selfish love of one man! The stage is your world, and when you leave it you'll go into an eclipse!

Ella's theatrical manager is trying to dissuade her from sacrificing her career to marry Jim Bunt.

But the public is fickle, while the man I love is true! While you're young the audience blows you kisses, but when you're old they throw you hisses!

Remember — if you marry this westerner your nearest neighbor will be five miles away, and the only time you'll see a friend is when you stand in front of your mirror!

My heart says he's wrong, but my mind says he's right! I need good advice and I need it bad! I'll reserve judgment and let my public judge for me!

Ella is asking for the best directions at the crossroads of life! Won't you help her to decide?

VANCOUVER

WORLD-GIRDLER LEAVES BY EMPRESS OF ASIA WITH TWENTY-SIX DAYS AS GOAL

Charlie Olsen, New York Marathon, Completed Air Trip From New York Via Seattle Last Evening Aboard Flying Boat Zephyr; R. Maiullari, His Opponent, Due Here To-morrow Week on Empress of France.

"Now for the Pacific stretch," exclaimed Charlie Olsen of New York as he stepped from the cockpit of the flying boat Zephyr at the Inner Harbor airport confident of beating the world-encircling time of his Italian opponent, Raffaele Maiullari.

Pilot Percy Barnes brought his plane here from Seattle at 5.15 o'clock yesterday afternoon and immediately prior to the landing Olsen gleefully sighted the three-funnelled ship which is to be one of the chief goals in his hurried journey across the face of the globe.

Of Scandinavian descent, Olsen is a slight, good-looking New Yorker with a reputation as a marathon runner. He is encumbered with but fifteen pounds of baggage, consisting of one small suitcase.

There seems to be an impression abroad that my opponent has a distinct edge in the race because he is now on his way across the Pacific in the opposite direction, but this is a wrong impression because elapsed time will decide the winner of the race," said Mr. Olsen after he had boarded the liner Empress of Asia at the Rithet docks.

"This is purely a sporting venture, and if I am able to make my proper transport connections I believe I shall win the race," he added.

"I am figuring on a leeway of six hours, but I hope to beat Maiullari's time by twenty-four hours."

"We are both using the Canadian route on the Pacific because of the speediest ships available and the matter of one day means a great saving of time."

"Maiullari sailed from New York on May 22 by the Mauretania and is now crossing from Yokohama to Victoria on the Empress of France."

"After landing at Yokohama I shall travel by rail to Shimonoseki and there take express steamer across the Korea Strait to Fusan."

"Then I shall continue by rail through Mukden and join the Transiberian Railway at Harbin."

"At Irkutsk I shall take the Dobrol's air line to Moscow, use the Lufthansa line to Berlin and on to Cherbourg, taking the first available fast steamer for New York."

"I know I am going to beat Maiullari's break, neck in the attempt," said Olsen.

Olsen stated that he left New York last night at noon. He took the New York Central rail-air combination to Chicago, where he made direct connection with the Boeing air line, landing at the Seattle airport via Portland, Ore. Maiullari made good time across Europe and Siberia and sailed from Yokohama by the Empress of France yesterday for Victoria. He is due to arrive here June 22.

The world marathon by Olsen and Maiullari is being managed by established rail and air routes.

Olsen is being financed by James Tofani, president of the Starlight Contracting Corporation of New York. Maiullari, who is a New York iceman and the holder of former established transport records, is paying his own way.

WILL INAUGURATE NEW SERVICE BETWEEN SIDNEY AND STEVESTON

SIDNEY-STEVESTON FERRY SERVICE TO GIVE SHORT ROUTE

The inauguration of the Sidney-Steveston service to-morrow marks the consummation of efforts made through the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Sidney Board of Trade.

It was last year that the Sidney Board of Trade sought to bring about the establishment of a motor ferry service between Sidney and the B.C. mainland. The short all-Canadian route was considered and negotiations were opened with Capt. Neroutsos with a view to establishing a ferry service from Sidney to Steveston. The distance between these two points is but forty-one miles, with an estimated saving in travelling time of one hour. Apart from the short direct route there will be no custom to go through as both are Canadian terminals.

Sidney is reached from Victoria over eighteen miles of paved highway, and Vancouver is reached over thirteen miles of fine highway from Steveston.

Realizing the importance of the route and the possibilities of its expansion, the C.P.R. fell in with the idea and offered to place the Motor Princess on regular schedule.

A new terminal was erected by the company at Steveston at considerable cost for the berthing of the ferry at the mainland point, and extensive improvements were made to the Sidney wharf by the Federal Department of Public Works.

The inauguration of the new service between Sidney and Steveston will be maintained under the new schedule. The Motor Princess will leave Sidney daily at 9 a.m., arrive Steveston noon; leave Steveston 12.30 p.m., arrive Sidney 3.30 p.m.; leave Sidney 3.50 p.m., arrive Steveston 6.35; leave Steveston 7 p.m., arrive Sidney 10 p.m.

The Australian passenger carrier Ventura arrives here to-day by way of Honolulu. The body of Second Officer Grouse, who died on board ship June 6, is being brought to San Francisco for burial.

Plans for a survey of the forest resources of the Dominion made jointly by the Federal and Provincial Governments of Canada will be discussed at a conference in Ottawa set for June 25, 26 and 27. M.P.'S DISCUSS B.C. FISHERIES

Estimates of Department Approved By House of Commons

Ottawa, June 14.—Estimates of the Department of Fisheries were approved by the House of Commons yesterday.

When an item of $100,000 for encouragement of deep sea fishing was under consideration A. W. Neil, Independent, Comox-Alberni, urged that part of it be given to the British Columbia coast industry. It was his view the annual bounty was being diverted from the encouragement of deep sea fishing to a little petty hand-out to the Atlantic fishermen."

Hon. P. J. Veniot, Postmaster-General and member for Gloucester, N.B., asserted the money was distributed among the Atlantic fishermen as a right, resulting as it did from an international treaty with the United States.

Mr. Neil did not agree with that. The statute governing this disbursement laid it down the money was to be spent for the encouragement of deep sea fishing, he said. If it was to be distributed among fishermen, then those on the Pacific coast were as much entitled to a proportion of it as the Atlantic fishermen.

The item carried.

There was discussion of an appropriation of $248,885 for the Marine Biological Board of Canada. Mr. Gen. A. D. McRae, Conservative, Vancouver North, believed the operations of the biological station at Nanaimo should be a more practical nature. It was essential to receive results at that station which would be real assistance to the fishermen.

It was not a question of the competence of the board, nor of the cost of the work, said Gen. McRae. What he objected to was the fact that the board, in his opinion was not making the progress it ought to do if the sockeye salmon fisheries were to be saved.

Gen. McRae pointed his remarks with an amendment to reduce a $10,000 vote for the Biological Board to $1.

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, intimated his department would co-operate with the board. He hoped there would be no reduction in the item.

The amendment was not pressed by Gen. McRae.

Finally the main appropriation of $248,885, as well as the supplementary vote of $10,000, was approved.

Balfour Sanitarium Will Be Demolished

Nelson, B.C., June 14.—A landmark of Kootenay Lake at the outlet, Balfour, former C.P.R. tourist hotel and later the Balfour Sanitarium, is to be demolished. Such is confirmed by the hotel department of the railway company in Winnipeg. Built in 1910 at a cost of about $250,000, the hotel was operated until the war during the tourist season. In 1915 it was reopened under Captain Olson of Alberta as a sanitarium for soldiers suffering from tuberculosis, and was used for operating as such for about two years and has since been idle. Material in the building will be sold by the contractor.
